

TORRENTIAL FLOODS CLAIM THOUSANDS OF LIVES WHILE DESOLATION IS UNCHANGED

Governor Cox Issues Statement In Which He Says Death List in Ohio May Reach as High as 10,000

INTENSE SUFFERING NOW PREVAILS

Conditions in Columbus as Well as Dayton Are Most Distressing--Fires Are Reported To Have Burned Out-Ohio and Tributaries Still Rising

Chicago, March 27.—Estimates of the loss of life by floods in Ohio and Indiana were still inaccurate early today though 1,500 was placed as the minimum by the most conservative. Other estimates which included rumors of large loss of life and in towns and districts shut off from communication run as high as 4,000.

Gov. Cox of Ohio said late last night that it was believed more than 1,000 persons had perished in Dayton alone, and that the loss of life in other parts of the state might increase the total to 2,000 or even more.

The latest report from Piqua, Ohio, places the number of dead there at 500, but there has been no verification of this report.

Waters Now Receding.

Fires were raging in various parts of Dayton all night, and it is feared that many of those marooned in buildings in the inundated districts were burned to death.

Effects on Mississippi.

Memphis, Tenn., March 27.—Thirty-two feet and five-tenths was registered on the local Mississippi river gauge today. This is a rise of 3 in the last twenty-four hours.

Report From Wheeling.

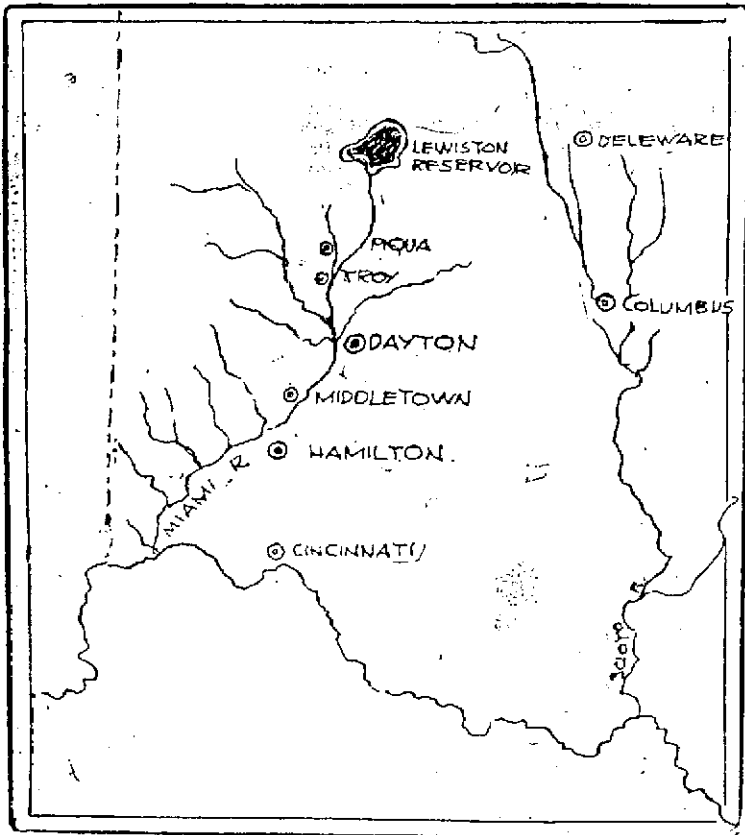

Wheeling, W. Va., March 27.—The Ohio river had reached the 48 foot stage at 11 a. m. and was rising four-tenths of an inch an hour. Wheeling already inundated feared the worst flood in its history.

One more death was reported today from Beavwood just below this city. 15,000 people are marooned in their homes and Bridgeport and Martin's Ferry, Ohio, opposite here are similarly affected. The greatest danger is from fire.

Rains Add to Flood.

Akron, March 27.—A heavy rain last night has added to the flood.

MAP SHOWS FLOODED OHIO DISTRICTS.

The bursting of the big Lewiston reservoir above Piqua added to the horrors of the Miami valley flood in Ohio Tuesday. The waters inundated Piqua, Troy and smaller places, and swept down on Dayton.

The waters in most of the flooded districts are receding, but there is great difficulty in reaching the refugees in buildings on account of the swift current.

Many gasoline launches have been rushed to the flooded district and it is expected many persons will be rescued today.

An Indiana estimate of the total number of dead runs all the way from 200 to 1,000.

Distributing Supplies.

Hamilton, O., March 27.—The water has receded in Hamilton so that before noon every family in town should be reached with supplies and then begin. Auto trucks, electric cars and railroad trains came within hauling distance of town this morning and carloads of supplies were unloaded and made ready for distribution. Estimates of the dead have run from 100 to 1,000, but an accuracy is impossible. As the water recedes the damage to property becomes more apparent. A relief train from Indianapolis with provisions arrived this morning. The town is under martial law.

Ohio Rises Rapidly.

Louisville, Ky., March 27.—The stage of the Ohio river here at seven o'clock this morning was 33.9 feet, a rise of 11 feet in 24 hours. The river is now rising at the rate of about four inches an hour. Rain and snow fell generally throughout the Ohio valley last night and early today.

Railroad Bridge Out.

Indianapolis, March 27.—The Yan-night has increased the flow of the little Duynahoga river and the cold today has increased suffering among flood victims. Two hundred families are homeless and six persons are reported dead.

Other Rivers Rising.

Cambridge, Ohio, (via long distance telephone to Pittsburgh) March 27.—The Tuscarawas, Walhonding and Muskingum rivers flooded as never before and the water in some places is five miles wide in eastern Ohio is flood bound. The loss of life in western Ohio has not been verified, Zanesville being the only city from which one death has been reported.

Zanesville Flooded.

Pittsburgh, March 27.—Telephone communication with Zanesville, Ohio was severed this morning after this message from the Zanesville operator: "We are leaving the exchange in boats. Water up to the second story. Conditions here getting worse every minute."

Ten Thousand Homeless.

Middletown, O., March 27.—Middletown awoke today to face perils that threatened its existence. 10,000 people are homeless and unsheltered. Cold food is unobtainable, but relief may come during the day as trains and auto trucks are reported to be rushing to the city.

At Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 27.—Light and transportation facilities were paralyzed today. The stage of the river is 21.6 six inches and business is at a standstill.

South Bend, March 27.—Alarming reports as to the conditions of the Grand reservoir at Celina, Ohio, were modified after investigation by telephone officials in this city. The first information from Celina said that the reservoir had burst, but later reports stated that while the banks had considerably weakened they were still under control.

Report From Dayton.

Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—A small portion of Dayton's citizens today, from their refuge on the highest point in the city, awaited anxiously to learn of the fate of at least 65,000 of the city's inhabitants hemmed in by raging flood waters and menaced by fire.

Although only a little more than a mile from the section where it is feared there has been great loss of life hundreds of willing men and women looked on helplessly. Even during the early hours of the third day of the flood many estimates of the number who have perished would be mere guess work.

Fire Adds to Horror.

Thousands have been marooned. How many survive no one knows. Numerous fires have sprung up since the water from a burst reservoir poured in tens of thousands, but the worst blaze started yesterday afternoon about 4:30 and this morning was still claiming its toll of property and doubtless many lives.

Although water from the swollen streams had slowly been creeping up on the outlying sections of the city for hours, the catastrophe which resulted so seriously came within thirty minutes after the water from the reservoir broke.

The Streets Soon Became

brooks for swelling torrents of water in which folks could not live. Those safe from the flood have had to wait until the water subsided.

The water went down perceptibly each hour afternoon yesterday and during last night and unless other reservoirs break, which is feared, the well organized force of relief workers should have a large section of the city explored before daylight.

Fire the extent of which is unknown added a grim menace last night and today. From what could be seen through a field glass from the top of a tall building more than a mile away it seemed as if the blaze started in the Patterson Supply Company's plant. Early today it had consumed at least part of three blocks.

The Patterson plant is on Third street near Jefferson. The fire burned northwesterly for a time and then shifted to directly west.

Many Dead in Fire.

It has been conservatively estimated that 250 persons were marooned in the Beckel House, which was believed to have gone up in flames. This fact, however, could not be definitely ascertained. Whether many persons were in other buildings in that vicinity is best known.

Two expert armers took a boat into parts of Third and Jefferson streets yesterday and saw persons in every building who pleaded with them to save them. They did not traverse that portion believed to have burned.

Word was received early today that sixty motor boats with men to operate them were coming from Cleveland and a few from Cincinnati. Unless conditions become worse it is believed practically all the submerged section can be explored today.

That conditions will improve is not assured, however.

Large Area Burned.

Sidney, Ohio, March 27.—A message received here from Dayton via Tippecanoe today says that fire has consumed that territory in the flooded city bounded on the north by First street on the east by St. Clair, on the south by Third street and on the west by the Boulevard. The message came to the Cincinnati Hamilton and Dayton railroad. If true, the information means that the territory nine blocks long and two blocks wide has burned. The district is a fine residence section and contains the Beckel House, court house, jail, Central Union Telephone Company, Callahan bank building and several other structures.

Breaks Out Anew.

Columbus, O., March 27.—Word reached the office of Adjutant General Wood early this morning from the Central Union telephone operator at Dayton, who has been a principal means of communication, that the fire had taken a new start.

The flames have broken out in several new places and were getting so near the telephone building that he would have to leave.

The operator, who has been furnishing Columbus with bulletins for 45 hours said he "wanted to say goodbye to Columbus people." His own safety has been in doubt.

May Reach 10,000.

Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—"If the death list is only 1,000 I will consider it marvelous dispensation," telegraphed Governor Cox's secretary. "If it is 10,000 I will not be surprised. Horrible as this is," he continued, "the real suffering will grow worse for days. There are 70,000 homeless. The refugees are being fed from hand to mouth with less than a day's food supplies ahead."

Harrowing tales have been told in connection with the rescue work already done. A boy pitched by his mother from his roof to a boatman who was having difficulty keeping his craft steady, was rescued by the rescuers and drowned. The mother was saved. A young husband had to restrain his wife from throwing herself into the flood waters as they sat on the roof of their ruined home. She was holding two children. All were saved.

Care for Refugees.

Persons taken from flooded homes have been well cared for.

Although all grocery stores outside the flooded area sold out their stocks yesterday afternoon, food soon was supplied by other cities. Doctors and nurses have been rushed from nearby towns and today Dayton waits to aid its unfortunate and care for the dead.

Unlike other cities heretofore overwhelmed by flood, Dayton has few representatives citizens to relieve victims of the flood and fire that have swept this city. It was impossible to communicate with the mayor or other city officials as they, with more than half the population of more than 150,000, are hemmed in by the water.

Patterson in Charge.

The relief work is being done well by a small body of citizens in the southeast part of the city who happened not to be caught in the business section when the flood suddenly made egress from the buildings impossible. The relief is in charge of J. F. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company.

Columbus Loss Heavy.

Columbus, Ohio, March 27.—Between 500 and 1,000 persons lost their lives in the flooded west side of Columbus, according to reports of the Columbus Dispatch, who have just gotten into communication with the newspaper office from the previously isolated section of the city.

This same estimate is given by persons in charge of the relief stations on the hilltops west of the flooded section.

According to those who invaded the stricken district the charities, big state institutions and storehouses in the hilltops section are crowded with refugees, many of whom were rescued from the murky waters and who tell stories of indescribable horror.

Mayor Gives Estimate.

Former Mayor George S. Marshall, who was in telephone communication with Attorney Cecil Randall, his law partner, said today that Mr. Randall thought the death toll would at least reach 1,000.

Throngs of excited groups of people from the flood-stricken section of the city who were crowded into the temporary rescue quarters asserted that the estimate of Mr. Randall is not exaggerated.

The true extent of the awful tragedy enacted during the sweeping away of homes and the exact death toll will not be known for days, unless the mass of wrecked houses and uprooted trees seen over the lowlands south of the city are uncovered.

Stories of Refugees.

This mass of debris is now under several feet of water with swift currents running in many directions. Many of those rescued tell of escape from their homes by fractions of minutes just before the rushing waters swept their homes away and crushed them like egg-shells against bridges. Scores of entire families, the report asserts, were swept down with their homes by the swift current.

Every available inch of space in the Columbus state hospital for the insane and Mount Carmel hospital, on the hilltops is occupied by refugees according to those who invaded the stricken district today.

Fire Under Control.

That the fire in Dayton was under control and practically ended was the information given to Governor Cox by telephone from Dayton this afternoon. Five hundred lives were lost at Piqua, according to information received here this afternoon by Senator S. E. Kiser of Piqua. His informant was J. Guy O'Donnell, prosecuting attorney of Miami county.

Cincinnati New Threatened.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 27.—The continued rains of the last twenty-four hours completely changed the complexion of the river situation in this city, and today, according to experienced river men, Cincinnati is threatened with one of the worst floods in her history. With the Muskingum, Scioto, and the two Miamis pouring their streams of water into the Ohio and the Licking on the Kentucky side doing likewise, the river during the night rose to 57.7 feet at this point, and was increasing at the rate of two inches an hour.

Radical observers predict a seventy foot rise, but more conservatives say that sixty-three would not be improbable, and that unless the two Miamis run out more gradually than at present an even greater stage may be recorded.

The Central Union railroad station was abandoned last night and all trains leaving or entering the city are being detained.

Indianapolis Situation.

Indianapolis, March 27.—Organized rescue work was resumed after daylight today in the flooded district of West Indianapolis. Police officials and rescue workers estimated that 500 persons spent the second night of the flood in the second floor of houses and buildings. Three were known to have drowned and a night of snow and freezing temperature threatened an increase in the death list that is expected to grow steadily throughout the day.

1,000 loaves of bread and other supplies were sent into the flooded district at daylight. Relief work proceeded a little more rapidly after an additional fall of 18 inches.

Diseases arising from unsanitary conditions and the exposure of the flood victims already threatens to a greater toll than the water. Five women taken to Tomlinson hall are suffering from pneumonia and cases of whooping cough and measles were discovered among the refugees.

Summary of Conditions.

New York, March 27.—A summary of conditions in Dayton as reported over the A. T. & T. line to Phonotele and forwarded to this city follows:

"One of our employees who returned this evening from the north side of the submerged section of Dayton says the scenes there was indescribable. People are huddled in churches and public school buildings and there is danger of these collapsing. Three babies were born in one church this afternoon. One was born in a bear while its mother was being conveyed to safety. Such scenes are common. Every effort was made by us to aid the sufferers with supplies and such other help as we could."

School Here 600.

"There is a school building said to contain 600 persons and indications were that it would collapse in a short time. Two men using a pleasure boat to view the scene had to be backed to rescue service by the police at the point of shot guns."

"Many buildings in a portion of the downtown section were destroyed by fire this afternoon. The fire seems to have subsided, considerably with heavy rain this afternoon. Indications are that there will be great loss of life before enough help arrives to get people to places of safety. A relief committee which met on the north side of Dayton this afternoon reported between 500 and 1,000 homeless. Many dead bodies were floating past. There is great danger of the spread of disease all afternoon."

Reports as to Fires.

A report received near midnight says the town of Piqua was on fire. There was no positive confirmation of the report. About the same hour, according to Phonotele messages, fires were raging in Dayton.

"For the last hour," the message said, "burning buildings in Dayton have been plainly visible from our office here. The rain has subsided now so the fire has practically nothing to check it."

JANESVILLE CITIZENS TO AID VICTIMS OF FLOOD

BOTH HOUSES PASS PAUL TOBACCO BILL

Measure Introduced by Rock County Assemblyman Calculated to Benefit Farmers, Goes To Governor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 27.—The senate completed the effort made by the assembly to change the methods of contracting for tobacco, sugar beets and other crops bought in the field, when last night it concurred in the Paul bill requiring that such crop shall be paid for in accordance with the weight when delivered. Under existing customs these crops are bought by men in the field long in advance of harvest.

The Weigle bill appropriating $50,000 for the construction of a state administration building in Milwaukee was laid over for two weeks to allow time to investigate into the sufficiency of the amount.

The Sommerfield bill requiring licensing of embalmers was concurred in. Other bills passed were:

No. 203S, Senator Stevens, Authorizing the sale of certain lands in Oneida county belonging to the state of Wisconsin.

No. 250S, Senator Stevens, Relating to limitations of actions to recover possessions of lands conveyed for non-payment of taxes.

No. 259S, Senator Burke, Relating to commitment to the state public school.

No. 300S, Senator Burke, Relating to commitment to the state reformatory.

No. 41S, joint finance committee, appropriating to compensate members of the boundary commission appointed in 1911.

No. 233A, Mr. Conway, relating to the hunting of deer.

The senate refused, by a vote of 17 to 11, to reconsider the vote by which it concurred in the Redding bill extending the term of county judges from four to six years. It also refused to recede from its action in fixing the minimum saloon license fee in municipalities with more than 500 inhabitants at $500.

TEACHERS OF NORTHEASTERN IOWA IN CONVENTION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Independence, Ia., March 27.—The annual convention of the Northeastern Iowa Teachers' Association began here today and will continue until Saturday. A large attendance and an unusually attractive program of papers, addresses and discussions combine to give promise of one of the most successful meetings in the history of the association.

MINNESOTA SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS MEET IN DULUTH

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Duluth, Minn., March 27.—More than one thousand delegates and visitors among them all the most noted Sunday school workers of Minnesota, registered here today for the annual state Sunday school convention. In point of attendance and in the number and prominence of the speakers the convention bids fair to eclipse all of its predecessors. Eleven specialists of international reputation have been engaged as lecturers and instructors for the convention and its "school of methods." The sessions will continue over Sunday.

SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS ALREADY SUBSCRIBED FOR IMMEDIATE RELIEF OF UNFORTUNATE PEOPLE IN FLOOD STRICKEN DISTRICTS.

SEND FUND TO GOV. COX

Money Can Be Left at the Gazette Office to Be Added to the Sum Already Subscribed.—Liberal Donations Are Invited.

In response to the demand for immediate aid for the sufferers of the disastrous floods which have swept over the Ohio and Indiana river valleys, the Gazette has started a subscription list open to all citizens desirous of aiding in the great work.

The money collected will be forwarded to Governor James M. Cox at Columbus, Ohio, or to the person he shall designate to receive contributions. A telegram to this effect as follows was sent Governor Cox this afternoon:

"James M. Cox, Executive Chamber, Columbus, Ohio.

Janesville, Wisconsin, will raise funds for the sufferers of the flooded districts. To whom shall money be forwarded?"

GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

The list was started by J. M. Bostwick and Sons with $100. Miss Ida Harris, $25. Jeffries estate, $25. Gazette Printing Company, $25. Parker Pen Company, $25. C. S. Jackman, $50. Rock River Cotton Company, $25. Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy, $25.

All contributions can be left at the Gazette Printing Company's business office and will be credited to the list. It is imperative that the sufferers be given immediate relief and very citizens who are desirous of contributing is urged to do so at once.

Mayor Fathurs will issue an official call for aid without doubt tomorrow, all monies being forwarded to the proper authorities as fast as collected so that the needy sufferers can be given immediate relief.

The following dispatch from Washington explains the attitude of President Wilson on the gravity of the situation and while everything is being done that is possible for the flood victims, the need of money is imperative.

Washington, March 27.—President Wilson has determined to go to the Ohio flood district if his presence there can do any good. The president will await word from Secretary Garrison and decide then if he will join the relief party.

Reverend J. W. Laughlin this afternoon stated that a special collection will be taken in the Presbyterian church on Sunday and other churches will doubtless act in a similar manner.

To illustrate the pressing need for funds the following dispatches on this subject that came from the Associated Press this afternoon are printed below:

Need Money.

Columbus, March 27.—That money by telegraph is the urgent need of Ohio's flood swept district if the substance of a proclamation issued by Governor Cox today. He said that it is impossible to get supplies to the stricken districts because railroad trains are unable to operate and that supplies can best be procured at the nearest points to cities and towns affected.

"The situation is critical and the need is urgent," said the proclamation.

"The officers of the Red Cross are here and ready to give assistance," the proclamation says.

Life Saving Supplies.

Washington, March 27.—Secretary McAdoo today placed all the United States life saving stations in the vicinity of the flooded districts at the disposal of Governor Cox and Governor Ralston ordered the crews to respond immediately and directly to the state executive.

Governor's Proclamation.

Madison, Wis., March 27.—Governor McGovern this afternoon is preparing a proclamation to the people of Wisconsin calling for gifts of money and supplies to relieve the sufferers in the flooded districts of Ohio and Indiana.

Leaves For Scene.

Washington, March 27.—Secretary Garrison of the war department will leave Washington today for the flood district to take personal charge of relief and to represent President Wilson.

Autos Loaded.

Richmond, March 27.—Twenty-five autos loaded with food supplies were sent today to Dayton by the Richmond Commercial club.

Naval Recruits.

Chicago, March 27.—Six yaws loaded with enough provisions to last a week, 52 recruits and two surgeons from the United States naval recruiting station at North Chicago, in charge of First Lieutenant John Day London left for Logansport, Indiana, on a special train today to engage in rescue and relief work among the flood sufferers.

RAILROAD CREW OF '75 CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Frankfort, Ind., March 27.—It will be forty years tomorrow since the first train on the Toledo, St. Louis and Western (the Clover Leaf) railroad made the trip from Kokomo to Frankfort. The five men who were most intimately connected with the initial trip have arranged to hold a banquet here tomorrow night in celebration of the anniversary. They are Wesley Kemp, of Frankfort, who was the engineer on the first trip; E. H. Whitaker, of Frankfort, the road's first fireman; J. P. Gaddis, of Frankfort, who was the conductor; Harvey Armentrout, of Indianapolis, who was the first brakeman, and Daniel Comstock, of New York, who supervised the building of the road.

BREWERY DOMINANCE OF SALOONS IS HIT

BROTHERHOODS TAKE ACTION, ON SUGGESTION BY ATTY. THOMAS S. NOLAN.

TO PETITION COUNCIL

Would Demand License Applicant to Make Affidavit—Playground Movement Takes Form.

Brewery ownership and control of saloons was condemned by a unanimous vote at the union banquet of the brotherhoods of five different churches, the Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist Episcopal, Congregational and United Brethren, held last evening at the beautiful dining room of the Congregational church. This expression of sentiment by the two hundred or more men in attendance was made on the motion of Attorney Thomas S. Nolan, who gave a stirring address on the subject of "Political Conditions in Janesville. Particularly as They Affect Moral and Social Conditions." Provision for its more definite registration was made when approval was given to the motion of George A. Jacobs, that the toastmaster, Attorney O. A. Cestrich, appoint the president of each brotherhood a member on a committee to circulate petitions for the signature of all the members, them to be presented to the city council.

"Effective regulation of saloons is impossible without the elimination of their control by brewers," said Attorney Nolan. "Prior to the granting of a license there should be passed an ordinance prohibiting any brewer, or the representative of any brewer, from holding a retail liquor license. Every applicant for a license should be obliged to file an affidavit with his application, stating that no brewer or no person interested in a brewery has furnished him his license money or aided him in raising it, or holds the lease of the building which he is to occupy, or owns the saloon fixtures or has a share in the management of it in any way interested in his business; and he should further state in this affidavit that he has no contract with any brewery to handle the product of that brewery to the exclusion of any other. The license should provide that if it should appear at any time that any brewery is interested in any way in any saloon within the city, either by charging mortgage or otherwise, it will be sufficient cause for the revocation of the license of that saloon."

"A saloon keeper should be the master of his own business, and the only person interested in it. The most prolific cause of lawlessness in the saloon business today, and I speak advisedly, is the influence of the brewers. The majority of the saloons in many cities in the state of Wisconsin today are owned and controlled by the brewers. Their hold on the business in Janesville is greater than you think. The men in charge of brewery saloons are working on a salary, and their sole purpose or thought is to make good and to sell as much as possible, whether it be to minors or drunken men, or otherwise. If the man nominally in charge is not out of business, the brewery owning the place does not suffer. It will hire some other man and get a license in his name and go right on in the same way."

"It is a fact capable of demonstration that if a man has a saloon in a good location, and is doing well, some brewery will endeavor to get the lease of the building away from him and either obligate him to sell its product exclusively, or put him out of business and place some salaried man in charge. This should be made impossible. The men in charge of such places for a brewery have nothing at stake; they are working on a salary; they desire to stand in with their employer, and they know that if they are not working in that particular saloon they can secure a position teaching day or working for some other institution. There are many saloons in this city today run by men who have no interest, who have not a dollar invested in the business."

A measure similar to that now proposed by Mr. Nolan was drawn up and introduced in the common council a year ago by Alderman J. Dunin, who worked hard for its passage. The brewers soon got wind of the measure and its probable effects and by bringing pressure to bear upon the members of the council snatched the proposed ordinance from the committee. The petitions to be introduced will call for the enactment of an ordinance in accordance with the suggestions of Mr. Nolan.

"Moral conditions in Janesville as they were and still are to a lesser extent, are not to be charged up to the members of the previous city council," said the speaker. "They but reflected the public sentiment which had come to believe that the restricted saloon and the house of prostitution were necessary evils and institutions that must be tolerated. Former Chief of Police Hogan once made an attempt to rid the city of immoral women, but such powerful pressure was brought to bear upon him, and such loud voiced protests made by those who profited by the money that they made, that he was compelled to give up the effort. The time is now at hand when instead of the saloons regulating the city as has been the case in the past, the city is going to regulate the saloons. I have no fear that a 'clean-up' will hurt Janesville. Rockford and Beloit, closed have thrived while Janesville, open, marked time. If the recall movement is successful we will have the old conditions thrust back upon us again. If we do not want them we must give our wholehearted support to the present city administration."

Amusements of Janesville.
In a somewhat similar vein to the address of Attorney Nolan was that of Franklin A. Taylor, but liberally punctuated with his characteristic humor and personal references. Mr. Taylor devoted most of his talk to the saloons of Janesville, although his subject was the broad one of amusements. He did not favor prohibition but advocated the reduction of the license fee by half, and the increase of the license fee to $1200 a year. This, he believed would place the conduct of the business in more responsible hands, and make more drastic regulation possible. "For twenty years," said Mr. Taylor, "Janesville was dominated by one interest,—the liquor interest. They had the last and decisive word in the common council. There were good men in the council but they had nothing to say as to the conduct of the city government. Business men who desired raise their voice against the existing order of things were boycotted. Janesville now has its head above the slime. It has begun to clean house, and better times are at hand."

Action on Playgrounds.
Prompt action was taken by the brotherhoods as the result of the paper of H. S. Lovejoy on "Our Parks, Streets and Playgrounds"—including the Alleyways, Gymnasiums, and Sports for Young People. The action took the form of the passage of a motion made by the Rev. Dr. David Beaton, that the president of each church brotherhood appoint one member of a committee to inaugurate a movement to carry out the suggestions made by Mr. Lovejoy. By the motion of another Mr. Lovejoy was appointed the chairman of this committee.

For one thousand dollars Janesville can establish two playgrounds, one on each side of the river, and maintain them for six months said Mr. Lovejoy. This sum allows a margin of $200 over actual estimates and provides for the purchase of necessary equipment and superintendence by trained play leaders and supervisors. There is no necessity, in his opinion, for the purchase of land for playgrounds. Portions of the existing city parks and school grounds should be utilized.

Emphasis was placed by the speaker on the necessity of adequate supervision for the playground. An ordinary caretaker is no more competent for the place than the janitor of a saloon house is to teach. The play supervisor must be a natural leader, must be able to win and hold the confidence and respect of the children, teach them games and how to use the apparatus, and continually keep them interested and active. He must be an athlete, able to do the "stunts" which red-blooded boys desire to do and admire must make the children observe the rules of fair play, teach them courtesy, and inculcate the principles of good citizenship.

Salaries of playground directors average about $30 a month, but Janesville could find a way to obtain adequate service at less expense. The physical director might take charge of the work during the summer vacation, or the physical director of the Y. M. C. A. Volunteers could also give assistance.

Equipment for playgrounds need not be expensive, at least to begin with. The average cost of equipment for playgrounds is $250 according to the figures submitted by number of cities. Part of the equipment can be made by the manual training department of the schools.

The general phases of the playground movement, the necessity of organized and supervised play to the creation of good citizens, and the function of the playground as a safety-valve for youthful energies were set forth effectively in the paper of Mr. Lovejoy, which also took notice of the conditions peculiar to Janesville.

Boots For Y. M. C. A.
Strong arguments for the establishment of a Young Women's Christian Association in Janesville and the provision of a building for its accommodation, were made by Principal of the High School, H. C. Buell, who spoke on "Our Educational and Recreational Institutions—Including Vocational and Training Schools, Y. M. C. A. and an Institution for the Rest and Recreation of the Working Women of the City."

His arguments were well supported by evidence. There are in the city 318 girls between the ages of fifteen and twenty as shown by the school census. Of this number 250 are at work in some gainful occupation. There are 600 working girls twenty-five years of age or younger, and not less than a thousand in all. About three hundred of these are not living at home, and are provided with no social opportunities or recreational facilities except those that are commercialized. Many of the girls in domestic service are barred from social privileges. The city must find some way to discharge its obligation to these girls, and no institution is better equipped for this purpose than the Y. M. C. A.

Permanence, responsibility, and capability commend the Young Women's Christian Association as the vehicle for giving Janesville working girls the advantage they need. The organization furnishes trained secretaries, and should one find it necessary to give up her position, another is supplied, preventing abrupt and radical changes of policy that might follow control by a local organization. It is able to furnish wholesome recreation under wise supervision, the greatest need of the working girl, to administer to their physical and intellectual needs, and serve as a clearing house of information and an employment bureau. Prof. Buell paid a high tribute to the work of the Y. M. C. A. and expressed the hope that the city would be no less generous to its girls and young women, than it had been to its young men.

Health And Poverty.
Exhaustive and painstaking research as well as significant figures, fact, and conclusions, marked the paper of Principal F. W. Lowth of the Rock County Training School on "Janesville's Health and Poverty—Including Sanitation, Infantile Diseases, Tuberculosis and Poverty." Mr. Lowth had obtained his information and opinions by letters and interviews with the City Health Officer, the Visiting Nurse, Poor Commissioner, physicians, and others who spoke from personal observation. His subject was treated under two heads, the conditions in Janesville and the needs of Janesville.

The health of the school children was the first topic which the speaker took up, using data collected by the visiting nurse. The conditions at the Jefferson school were typical of the city as well as of the country at large. At that institution 365 children were examined. Of this number 120 had defective eyesight, 201 had adenoids or diseased tonsils. 166 had defective teeth, 100 were nervous or anemic. It is to be understood however, that one child may have more than one ailment, one being very apt to cause the other. Eighty-eight children, about one-quarter of the children enrolled were found to be in normal condition. The average child gets insufficient sleep, often caused by toothache or earache, and many suffer through sleeping in unventilated rooms. Not a few suffer from malnutrition, not so much from eating too little food, but from not eating enough of the right kind of food. Their rations are unbalanced. Fifteen per cent of the children are insufficiently clothed, and about six per cent insufficiently fed. The physical condition of the children was such that their physical condition endangered the health of other children.

Janesville physicians are agreed that poor ventilation, lighting, dust, and overcrowding in the schools are accountable for much of the bad health of children. The greatest need of the schools according to the Health Officer is greater cleanliness.

Housing conditions in the city came in for a good share of comment in the paper of Mr. Lovejoy. One creditable estimate was that one-twentieth of the people residing in Janesville live in unsanitary houses. The disposal of waste is unsanitary, air-space improper, ventilation is not provided for, and the sunlight enters the rooms for but a very short time each day. One physician states that three-fourths of the houses have insufficient ventilation; another that twenty houses unfit for habitation are being rented in the city.

Inadequate garbage disposal was given by some as the greatest menace to the health of the city, and the recommendation made that collectors be licensed. Provision for the collection of garbage should be made when the annual city budget is drawn up. Uncleanliness, breaking of quarantine, promiscuous spitting, and carelessness as to spreading contagion were listed as contributing causes to ill health. Most physicians believed that there is little preventable disease in Janesville except tuberculosis. Of this disease there are twenty adult cases and eight child cases. The most prolific cause of poverty was the opinion of practically every person to whom inquiries were sent by Prof. Lowth. Few believed that poverty was the cause of excessive drinking. Disease in the family came next highest, and other causes given were desertion of husbands, of wife, occupational diseases, too large families, and debility of old age.

Estimates as to the number of totally destitute and partially destitute families varied considerably. Some parishes have no members that are totally destitute. According to the Poor Master there are only one or two destitute families in the city at the present time, and from sixty to seventy partially destitute. During the last year he extended aid to sixty destitute families. Figures from the Salvation Army and Associated Charities were also quoted.

Sanitary measures recommended by various contributors to the symposium were more severe and the prohibition of soil closets, more street cleaning, the establishing of a small municipal laboratory, cuspidors on the streets, sprinkling of streets before sweeping, condemnation of "shacks," ventilation and fumigation of theatres, and the expenditure of more money on the health department of the city.

The Lotus male quartette gave two very pleasing numbers on the program and were heartily applauded. The menu and service were above reproach.

TOWNS MUST EXPEND AT LEAST $400 ON ONE PIECE OF ROAD

State Will Withhold Its Proportion Unless Ruling Just Made by Highway Commission

All townships voting state aid for highways must expend at least $400 on every piece of road built under the state aid law in order to secure their proportion from the state, according to a ruling of the state highway commission which has just been received by the various town clerks.

The commission's reason for such an action is to obtain greater economy in the construction of state aid highways. That the order may work some inconvenience to the various townships is at once plain to the supervisors, as it has been the practice in the past to divide the appropriation into two or three amounts which are expended on as many different pieces of road. Thus in the case of a town which votes to raise $600 to build two separate strips of road, with the equal appropriations from the county and state there would be $900 for each piece of construction. But according to the commission there shall be no state aid given where the town does not contribute at least $400 which would preclude any such arrangement as outlined above. The town meeting providing where the money should be expended. This was done for the roads to be built during the coming season at the town meeting of 1912, but the commission had declared that their ruling shall be effective this year and next, which will mean that the towns will find it necessary to make an amendment to conform with the order.

The letter as sent out reads in part as follows:

"A meeting held March 20, this commission unanimously voted not to give state aid in 1913 and 1914 to any piece of road surfaced with concrete, stone, gravel or shale, for whose improvement less than $400 has been provided by the town. It will therefore be necessary, if the town last spring divided its appropriation for 1913 into amounts less than $400 for any piece of surfacing work, to redistribute the money in accordance with the above and to observe strictly the same rule as to appropriations for 1914. This rule was made by the commission in the interest of economy in construction and in accordance with the intent of the state aid law and must be complied with."

"The commission also calls attention to the fact that the state will pay its full one-third of the highway money this year to the various districts and one-fifth of the bridge money, according to a special act of the legislature making such a provision."

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ellen Brady.

This morning at eleven o'clock Mrs. Ellen Brady passed away at her home, 518 West Milwaukee street after a lingering illness of two years' duration. Mrs. Brady was born in this city, December 5, 1863, and has made this city her home most of her life. Mrs. Brady leaves one daughter, Margaret, a father, James Dea, and three brothers and two sisters, they being, William Dea of Chicago, James Dea of Waukegan, Ill., and Thomas Dea, Mrs. Catherine Maher and Mrs. Margaret Peterson of this city. Notice of funeral will be given later.

Michael Sullivan.

Michael Sullivan, a resident of Janesville for the last twenty-nine years, passed away at his home, 612 South Elm street, at 1:30 o'clock this morning. He was eighty-three years old at the time of his death and had been sick for a long time. Mr. Sullivan was born in County Kerry, Ireland, in 1830, and came to Janesville immediately after arriving in this country. He will be mourned by his widow, five sons, and two daughters. The sons, Patrick, Michael, Jr., James, Thomas, and John, and the daughters, Mrs. Mary Kelleher and Mrs. Ella Sullivan, all reside in Janesville. The funeral will be held from the home Saturday morning, requiem mass being celebrated at St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. John Stalley.

The remains of Mrs. John Stalley arrived here from Milwaukee at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon, and were at

THE KNOW HOW

To Feed Children and Get Good Results.

There are more nervous persons made so by undigested food lying in the stomach than the average individual would suppose.

If food remains undigested in the stomach, it begins to ferment, set up gas and a large portion is thus converted into poison.

That's why imperfectly digested food may, and often does, cause irritation of the nerves and stupor of the mind—brain and nerves are really poisoned.

"My daughter had complained for some time of a distressed feeling in the stomach, after eating, which set me thinking that her diet was not right," writes an anxious and intelligent mother.

"She had been fond of cereals, but had never tried Grape-Nuts. From reading the account of this predigestible food, it seemed reasonable to try Grape-Nuts for her case."

"The results were really wonderful. The little brain that seemed at times unable to do its work, took on new life and vigor. Every morning, now, before going to school, she eats the crisp little morsels and is now completely and entirely well, she seems to have a new lease on life—no more distress in the stomach, no headache, but sound and well everywhere."

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ATTEND
AIR BRAKE LECTURES

C. M. Devine, who is in charge of the air brake inspection car that the Northwestern railroad equips and supplies, reached Janesville yesterday afternoon and the car was side-tracked at the yards where it will remain during the course of the lectures. A schedule has been made out and placed upon the bulletin board showing when the workmen are expected to attend the instruction meetings. Every employee who has to work with the air-brakes has to attend at least one of the lectures. Those who do, sign their names and the list is checked off so no one can miss the meetings without sufficient reason. The car is equipped with all that is necessary to explain fully the working and operation of the brakes, air being supplied from the house.

One section of the Ringling Brothers' circus is due to go through Janesville some time tonight bound for Chicago from their winter quarters at Burbank. It is expected that there will be at least eighty cars in the first section. Two more are to follow.

The freight car that was blown out of a train, in Sunday night's storm at Clinton was put on the car repair track at the yards this morning. While the car is not damaged much, having some of the top ripped off, one side is badly coated with mud and the trucks are covered. The car was blown onto the side of an embankment by the force of the wind.

Engine No. 1, which has been working at the sand pit was brought in this morning for general repairs. J. M. Smith is taking a short vacation. Engineer Townsend is taking his place.

George McConnell, husky twirler with the New York Yankees, found the berth of the steamer, which the Yankees took to Bermuda, too short for his great length. Determined to make the best of circumstances he laid himself a bed on the floor and averred that the boat did not rock so much down low. He considered his freedom from sea sickness due to his preventive measure.

Buck Weaver, shortstop for the Chicago White Sox, has been having a tough time in the exhibition games played on the Pacific coast. All the fans out there have been pulling for Joe Berger, former Pacific Coast Leaguer, being tried out by the Sox. Their chief method has been to try to rattle Weaver, so that he would get fussed and make such a showing that Berger could win the regular position. Weaver has refused to get fussed, and appears to be sure to start the season as regular.

C. Webb Murphy, owner of the Chicago Cubs, is as strong as ever for the press agent stuff. He recently announced that he had been offered $35,000 and two first-class players in exchange for catcher Roger Bresnahan by a National League club. Bresnahan is still with the Cubs. It looks like a little scheme on the part of the Cub president to persuade holdout Jimmy Archer how highly he thinks of Roger, and how little Jimmy will be missed if he refuses to come to terms.

A rumor from New York has it that Roger Bresnahan, former catcher for the New York Giants, last year manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and now with the Chicago Cubs will soon become manager of the Cubs. Johnny Evers is said to be meeting all sorts of opposition from the players, who dislike the manner in which Joe Tinker was railroaded to Cincinnati, and who do not take kindly to the lashings administered by Johnny's sharp tongue. Bresnahan made as much of success as could anyone in St. Louis, hampered by a woman owner who tried to run a team. He should be a good man to handle the Cubs in case Evers should fail to come to the mark.

Harold Janvin seems sure to win a utility position with the Boston Red Sox. Heinie Wagner has been rounding to form slowly and Janvin has been showing great ability at shortstop, a position on the Sox which has been in St. Louis. He is a good substitute during the last few years. Evers, one of the best utility men in the business is less at home at short than anywhere else, while Ball really is a second baseman.

Jim Jeffries refuses to be convinced that he "can't come back," even though he originated that historic expression in his disastrous fight with Jack Johnson. He has given Tom Jones, manager of Ad Wogast, an option on his services. Tom is making a roundup of pugilistic curiosities, and already has Wogast, Jack Lester, Willie Hoppe and Bob McAllister. It looks as if he were going to start an exhibition of antiques, if he really is serious in desiring the services of Jeffries.

Recover Stolen Tombstone.
A stolen tombstone was unearthed during excavations following a recent fire in a shop in Girvan (Ayr). The workmen dug out a tombstone in an excellent state of preservation, bearing the following inscription: "By Anthony Campbell, Saddler, in Memory of His Daughter, Jean. Died July 1st, 1826. Aged 18 Years and Six Months." It is believed that the stone was stolen from the old Girvan churchyard and converted into a hearthstone, a quite common occurrence in the early days of the nineteenth century.—London Mail.

A graduate of the Carr College with a grade of 90 or better in all of his "studies"—batting, base-running, etc.—should be able to land a pretty nice berth in the big show and of course hold out the following spring for more money.

One hundred acres of land will be laid out into twenty diamonds. Here, of a balm afternoon will be seen countless undergrasped beating out bunts, practicing the "hook slide" or jumping with both spiked feet on dimmies in umpire uniforms. In rainy weather when the diamonds are too wet for practice, the theory and five points will be taken up. This will include a study of the history of our national pastime, going way back to the time when ball-players wore whiskers. There will be a class in "how to cuss an umpire without being chased to the bench." All the inside dope will be thoroughly studied. Carr expects to make San Antonio the baseball center of the world. He plans to make it a national training grounds for all big league teams. The baseball college, however, is the chief purpose. Whether or not there will be a correspondence course in connection has not been heard.

In the meanwhile the old corner-lot school will continue to turn out recruits who if they don't know the theory will be able to lean on the pill.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It
In the spring of 1880 I was attacked by Muscular and Intermittent Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedies after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but each failed as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. If, after you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

THE THIRD PARTY.

The question of a third party in congress is always a complication which the dominant faction must watch out for. It is a problem that puzzles many a politician to watch out for various combinations of practically independent voters when matters of national legislation come up for consideration.

Government has become more and more a matter of adroit handling of situations so as to record progress as defined by the largest number of "groups" willing to coalesce to gain a specific end, and when that end has been gained, there is disintegration of the coalition, followed by another grouping to gain another end.

The present generation of Americans has seen Populists, Prohibitionists, Greenbackers and a Socialist in congress, and noting their ineffectiveness there as partisans has perhaps assumed that the time never would come when the alignment would be radically altered or the historic nomenclature of republicans and democrats changed in any marked way. Such an attitude of certitude is not so common now as it was two years ago. Distinct groupings within the traditional parties appear.

A third party is present in respectable numbers, organized, with its own candidates for office in senate and in house, and conscious that in the recent election it polled a phenomenal vote for a first display of power. Moreover, the new party has a name that for many moderns has more appealing power than the names of the historic parties. It defines an attitude of being toward society. It enlists the person who accepts it as among the "henceforth" rather than among the "hitherto." It is the equivalent of the term "liberal" as used in countries where defenders of things as they are, are called "conservatives."

JOIN THE PROCESSION.

Join the procession Friday evening and attend the mass meeting at the assembly room in the City Hall. Get in line to start a genuine boosting procession for the city of Janesville. It may be that the legislature will not decide to remove the state fair from Milwaukee, after all, but at present there is a strong sentiment in favor of it, and if it is to be moved why not have the location made in Janesville. There is no more ideal location for a state fair, or in fact any industry, than Janesville offers. Its excellent railroad facilities, accessible to all parts of the state, on main lines of the leading railroads, in the richest of all Wisconsin agricultural districts, center of the tobacco and sugar beet fields. All those advantages and hundreds of others can be offered the committee which will report to the legislature on a possible site. Attend the mass meeting Friday evening and boost for Janesville.

THE FIGHT IS ON.

By the filing of the writ of mandamus by the attorneys for the element seeking the recall of the present city officials, in the circuit court, the expected long-drawn-out legal quibble over the construction of the law relative to the recall provision, has begun. It promises to be an interesting battle and one in which much dirty linen will be washed and hung on the lines of publicity to dry before finished. No matter how the case is decided in the circuit court, it will be taken to the supreme court for final adjudication, which means a delay of almost a year in the whole affair. Meanwhile the city will continue to be governed by the present officials and by the time the supreme court has passed upon the matter there may be other laws which will be effective, should the Ackley bill, passed by the senate on Wednesday, go through the assembly and be signed by the governor.

THE JUDICIAL FIGHT.

On Tuesday next the voters of Rock county will be called upon to name their choice for judge of the probate court. There are four aspirants in the race—John Cunningham, Judge Charles Fifield, Fred Burpee and Edward Ryan. All are Janesville lawyers, all have friends in every part of the county. It promises to be an interesting contest and the Gazette merely expresses the wish that the voters make their selection carefully and name the best man. Above all things go to the polls and register your vote. Do not fail to exercise your right of franchise in this important question which is of vital interest to every taxpayer.

NEED FOR AID.

There is need for aid, money clothing and provisions, in the stricken districts of Ohio and Indiana. It should be promptly sent the sufferers, many of whom have lost everything they owned in the world. While the great states of Indiana and Ohio are rich, it is not merely a question of state feeling, but a nation-wide calamity. Man is powerless to cope with the unexpected freaks of the elements and when disaster comes all mankind is made a brother. Let the response be made promptly and quickly to alleviate any unnecessary suffering.

PLAIN TALK.

Evidently there was some plain talk at the Brotherhood meeting at the Congregational church last evening in which plain facts about Janesville and conditions that exist here were discussed without gloves. Such gatherings and such discussions are always productive of good results and some of the suggestions made by the speakers will bear fruit shortly, it is safe to predict.

Free lunches have been abolished in Missouri and consequently the family grocery bill will increase as father will bring an unimpaired appetite to the table with him at noon and night.

The average small boy is as scornful of the elements as the average baseball fan and you can find him playing marbles in the snow drifts just because spring is here.

The Rock river has proven that even in its years of disuse as a real turbulent stream it has not forgotten its early teachings when it comes to spring freshets.

Another tower of Babel is to be constructed, this time in Dusseldorf, Germany, where a tower twice as high as the Eiffel tower is to be erected.

Are the persons who own rubber boot and umbrella factories among the class of idle rich or not? That is the question these wet spring days.

So J. Ham Lewis, pink whiskers and all is to go to Washington to watch after the interests of the democratic party of Illinois after all.

April fool day has been set aside for the annual spring election and perhaps it may be significant in its results.

The clean up the city slogan has gone forth and is a good one to follow out.

March continues to bungle its weather most frightfully.

When you hear a feller braggin' on his honesty and such; When he says if he'd been crooked he would certainly be rich. When he blows about the chances he has had to beat his pards, Just make out that you believe him, but don't fail to cut the cards.

When you hear a feller spoutin' on the way he runs his house, When he says it is dead easy for to regulate his spouse, When he tells you that he's boss you make up your mind for cert it's his wife that wears the trousers and it's him that wears the skirt.

When you hear a feller tellin' how to run the government, When he thinks it is his duty to correct the president, You kin listen quite respectful, but make up your mind offhand That he hasn't got the gumption for to run a peanut stand.

From the Hickeyville Clarion. Mrs. Anson Frisby, the leader of our smart set, says the people of this man's town ain't got no polish, but Mrs. Frisby is laboring under a misapprehension, as William Tibbitts, our popular groceryman, got in three dozen boxes last week.

When they pass the hat at the meeting house, the drooping of the coin makes as much noise as a snow storm. Old Man Hicks has got a new job stoppin' up a rat hole in the floor of Tibbitts' grocery with his wooden leg. This job is only temporary, however, as Mr. Tibbitts is only waitin' till he sells a can of oysters when he expects to stop up the hole with a piece of tin. Mr. Bud Hicks is no better at this writin'. He stole three cord of wood and a monkey wrench from Grandpa Bibbiss this week.

The new trimmer at Miss Amy Pringle's millinery emporium expects to go on the stage soon and marry some steel magnate or other. She says there is more fun trimmin' millionaires than trimmin' hats. I see in the papers where a feller in Baraboo, Wis., dropped dead while gittin' on a train. By jing, the people in our vicinity dies of old age waitin' for a train to come along. No funerals lately. The financial stringency makes folks work so hard to make a livin' that they don't have time to die. Foldin' chairs for funerals, dances and other social functions for rent, inquire of Amos Butts, also livery and sales stables.

William Tibbitts says he hates to pay his taxes, as a noted astrologer says the world is comin' to an end early this year and he don't like to waste money. When Tibbitts shaves he cuts down expenses by latherin' himself with the end of his whiskers. Bud Hicks ain't seen much of the world. He figgered it up that he had spent fourteen years in jail and twenty-one years waitin' in barber shops to get shaved. Anse Higgins is so red headed that William Tibbitts won't let him sit anywhere near the gasoline can in the grocery.

Miss Euphemia Mudge, our poetess of passion, has resigned her position as second cook at the Hotel Hickeyville to accept a lucrative position as society editor of this paper if she can get it, which is rather skeptical at this writing. Uncle Ezra Harkins got his Patent Recommendation in the paper last week and is making quite a success as an author. He says the path to literary fame is pretty middlin' uncertain, but it is mighty pleasant when you reach the top. He hopes to have a Swamp Road, recommended accepted by the Muckrake Magazine in the near future.

William Tibbitts, our groceryman, has lined the inside of his coal stove with tin paper to keep the cold out. Uncle Ezra Harkins says the snow was knee deep last winter and Hank Temm says Uncle Ezra is a liar, and that the snow wasn't deep. They might have been right, because the question would depend considerable on how tall a feller was.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE TROUBLE WITH MEXICO.

An American traveler familiar with Mexican conditions recently stated that two-thirds of the people of our sister republic can neither read nor write and that one-half of the remaining one-third are really illiterate.

In other words, only one-sixth of Mexico's 15,000,000 population are educated in any proper sense of the term.

The statement makes plain the reason for the country's present mournful condition—for the savagery, brutality, anarchy and all forms of lawlessness that afflict the land.

Physically speaking, Mexico is one of the garden spots of the world. The scenery is beautiful, the climate, especially in the high tablelands occupying most of the country, is mild, and the soil is fertile. There are some of the best features of both the tropics and the temperate zones.

In ancient times Mexico attracted the cream of all those living on the North American continent. While the present territory of the United States was covered with roving savages the Mexican states had a comparatively high state of civilization.

In not more ancient times there was a still mightier civilization, as recent excavations of the old ruins show. There were cities miles in extent and containing millions of people. When ancient Egypt flourished it is probable that Mexico had a civilization but little behind that of the Nile valley—the highest then existing on the earth.

All of this but goes to show the desirability of the country from the standpoint of climate and physical characteristics. It seems hardly fitted to maintain a great, prosperous and cultured population.

What a shame it is that such an ideal climate should be infested by mongrel races made up of 40 per cent Indians, 30 per cent negroes and the remainder mostly Spaniards, of a people more than two-thirds of whom are kept in absolute ignorance, who are a century behind the times and who are seemingly incapable of maintaining a civilized government! It is more than a shame; it is a crime.

The pitiful example should make Americans appreciate yet more keenly our splendid public school system, which, with a free press, constitutes the most powerful engine of democracy developed since the world began.

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS

ALBERT PATYSON TERHUNE

LITTLE TURTLE.

"I, with nine of my braves, have slain 1,400 white men!"

Thus bragged a tall, sour-faced Miami chieftain—somewhat inappropriately named "Little Turtle" (Mi-chi-ki-ni-quas). There is much reason to believe his wild boast was true. He might have added with equal truth that he was the only Indian who had ever routed United States armies in three fierce campaigns. Here is his adventurous life's story:

Little Turtle was born on the Miami river, in Ohio, about 1747. He was not of "chief rank" by birth, but was forced to begin life as a mere "brave." But by unusual wisdom, military genius and power of ruling men, he quickly rose to chieftainship. Like a few other famous Indians, he foresaw the time when the savages must be crushed under the heel of progress. And he schemed and put off that evil day as long as possible by forming a league of several important western and Canadian tribes.

Savage Warfare. The revolution was just ended, in 1782, and a few western trading posts were still in British hands. Little Turtle's men are said to have received food and weapons from some of these British traders and to have been secretly advised by them to reject the government's offers of peace. At any rate, the league would not obey the authorities, and continued to make life miserable for frontiersmen. So bitterly did they oppose the white man's westward emigration that the tide of pioneer movement was for the time utterly checked. Little Turtle thus found himself the real ruler of the west.

General Harmar was sent, in September, 1790, with 1,500 regular troops and militiamen from Fort Washington (where Cincinnati was later built) to tear from Little Turtle this rulership and to open the way for emigration. Harmar found the Miami chief's village deserted. He camped there; then sent 150 soldiers ahead to follow up a cunningly devised Indian trail. The trail led into a trap where Little Turtle neatly ambushed the whole party.

A few days later Colonel Hardin, with 300 men, was on a march from camp when he came upon a party of Indians. The Indians fled. The troops pursued them straight into another of Little Turtle's ambushes. About 150 of the soldiers were killed before they got back to their main body. Harmar, his expedition having failed, returned to Fort Washington; while the jubilant Indians continued to wipe out frontier settlements and destroy emigration trains. Not yet was Little Turtle to be deposed from the rulership of the west.

Late in the next year the government sent General St. Clair, with nearly 2,000 men, against the Miami. The fate of Harmar's force led many of the militiamen to desert. The rest marched into the Miami country. At dawn of November 4, 1791, Little Turtle, with 1,500 warriors, fell upon St. Clair's camp. For two hours the battle raged. The troops again and again tried to charge, only to see the Indians slip to either side before their onrush, and attack them on the flank. Then St. Clair ordered a retreat. This retreat turned into a panic-stricken stampede. The soldiers lost more than 600 men, 400 horses, all their cannon, provisions, wagons and extra ammunition. The Indian loss was 150. Few prisoners were taken by the victors. And these Little Turtle saved from torture.

These two campaigns and a third, wherein he had defeated the government troops at Blue Lick, Ky., completed Little Turtle's long list of victories. Now the tide turned. Washington sent "Mad Anthony" Wayne against him. Wayne was the sort of man who did not recognize defeat. So well versed was he in Indian warfare and so subtly brilliant in attack that the savages nicknamed him "Black Snake."

The Last Battle.

With about 4,000 soldiers he invaded the Miami country. On August 20, 1794, he met the whole Indian force in battle at Fallen Timbers. Little Turtle had a prophetic knowledge that Wayne could conquer him. He spoke of "Mad Anthony" as "the chief who never sleeps," advising his tribesmen to avoid battle with him and to sue for peace. For this wise advice Little Turtle was denounced by his followers as a coward and the main command of the 2,500 warriors was given to a Shawnee chief, Blue Jacket. In the battle of Fallen Timbers the Indians (who were outnumbered nearly two to one by the white men) were defeated with terrible slaughter. Little Turtle's "league" was forever shattered. His rulership of the west was at an end.

The next year, with other formerly hostile chiefs, he signed a treaty with the government, remarking: "I am the last to sign it. And I will be the last to break it." He kept his word. Settling down to a life of peace, near Fort Wayne, he went in 1797 to Philadelphia to see Washington. He was kindly received and was persuaded to sit for his portrait.

Little Turtle grew so fond of civilization's luxuries that he lost nearly all his old-time influence over the savages. This broke his heart. He died July 14, 1812, and was buried with high military honors.

Arabian Honey. Arabian honey, which is frequently mentioned by historians as an important export from Aden in early times, is no longer an item in the export trade. Small quantities, however, continue to come from Mokka, 400 miles east of Aden, and it is also exported from that place to India in small quantities. The decline in the honey and wax industry has been gradual for centuries, and is attributed to a diminution in the rainfall. The honey that comes to market in Aden is packed in gourds and goatskins and sometimes in hollow pumpkins.

LYRIC THEATER

Today

"Love"

A story produced in France by Pathe Freres. Not a "thriller," but a pleasing drama, with some beautiful scenes. 16 minutes.

"Pathe's Weekly"

The world's news in pictures. Probably the most popular film in America. This "number," however, does not seem to us to be quite up to the usual standard. 12 minutes.

"Stenographer Troubles"

Another of those irresistible Vitaphone comedies with Mr. John Bunny. This time Bunny is the grouchy boss, who cannot see why the clerks persist in flirting with the pretty stenographer. So he fires her, and hires instead an aged specimen that they surely will not bother. But she has flirtatious tendencies, and begins to beam on the boss, much to his discomfort, and the final climax when his wife arrives on the scene will keep you in good humor for a long time. 16 minutes.

COMING.

Sunday, "AS IN A LOOKING GLASS," with Miss Marion Leonard.

Monday, Vitaphone's "PICKWICK PAPERS," produced in England.

BELOIT OFFICIALS MEET WITH TAYLOR TO DISCUSS TAXES

City Attorney Adams, City Treasurer Rogers and City Clerk Wood Held Conference Here Today.

Three Beloit officials, Harry W. Adams, city attorney, B. E. Wood, city clerk, and David Rogers, city treasurer, were in this city this morning to hold a conference with Assessor of Incomes P. A. Taylor in regard to the tax and assessment question at the city of Beloit.

One of the principal matters for discussion was the means of collecting the delinquent income taxes, which amount to a considerable sum in the Line City. In cases where citizens have moved from the city the Beloit officials are at a loss to know how the money which is forthcoming as income taxes may be collected.

Mr. Taylor stated that the delinquent income taxes were returnable to the taxing district, town, city or village, in the same manner as the personal property taxes, according to his interpretation of the law. However, there is a complication in as much as the county gets a part and the state a part of the collections. The matter is a very interesting one and upon a definite solution of the same will depend much of the effectiveness of the income tax law, as it is plain that if persons can easily shirk paying their income taxes it will only mean a greater burden on the various taxing districts.

Mr. Taylor further suggested that the treasurers exercise every possible means of securing the income taxes as they appear on the assessment rolls.

The matter of an extension of time for making returns to the county treasurer from the city of Beloit was also taken up at the conference this morning. Owing to some confusion at Beloit the officials have been unable to settle up their books by the prescribed time.

W. H. MINICK DIED EARLY THIS MORNING

Had Suffered With a Lingered Illness for Five Years—Once Conducted Hotel in This City.

W. H. Minick died at his home, 203 East Milwaukee street, at 4:30 o'clock this morning after suffering with a lingering illness for five years. During this time he had two strokes of paralysis, and since August 5, 1912 has been unable to leave his bed. Mr. Minick was sixty-one years of age and was born in the town of La Prairie, residing there until his removal to this city several years ago. He conducted a hotel in Janesville several years and was well and favorably known throughout the county. Surviving him and mourning his passing are his wife and seven children, five daughters and two sons. They are: Mrs. James Black of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Gus Hill, Mrs. Frank Stark, Mrs. Charles Good and Miss Alice Minick, all of this city, Arthur and William A. Minick, also of Janesville. A sister, Mrs. Richard Hogan resides in this city. Notice of funeral will be given later.

FIGHT STUBBORN FIRE AT CARRIAGE WORKS

Blaze in Paint Shop Threatens to Destroy Plant of Janesville Company—Kept From Spreading.

Fire originating from an unknown cause last night threatened the destruction of the Janesville Carriage Works, corner of East Milwaukee and North Bluff streets, and its early discovery, followed by a quick response and well directed work by the fire department was all that kept the blaze from spreading throughout the factory, and possibly to the adjoining buildings in the block, any one of which might have proved an easy prey to the flames. The blaze was confined to the one room of the paint shop in which it started. Damage to the building, to automobiles, carriages and unfinished tops stored there will be from $500 to $700, and is probably covered by insurance carried with the firm of Carter and Morse.

Discovery of the fire was made by Edwin L. Carpenter, at about ten o'clock. As he was walking east on Milwaukee street he saw smoke issuing from the Bluff street side of the carriage works, and on making an investigation saw that there was a fire burning inside. A bell alarm was turned in from the Kemmerville livery near by and was later followed by a box alarm that called out the apparatus of all three fire stations.

Dense smoke and heat, caused by the burning of a heavy incrustation of paint, oil, and varnish on the floors, made it impossible for the firemen to enter the building or locate the fire for about ten minutes after they arrived. Many windows all through the building had to be broken in to let out the smoke so that the firemen could enter. The fire was found to have started in the floor near a large stove used for heating. It burned through the floor in several places, and also penetrated the ceiling. The cellar-pipe improvised by the firemen was used to good effect. Two streams of water were played on the fire, and a third line of hose laid and in readiness for use if needed. There was plenty of water to be had in the vicinity and there was no danger of the fire spreading to the building.

A considerable quantity of varnish, paint, and oil, was stored in an adjoining room, and if this had been ignited, it would have been difficult to save the paintshop.

Two automobiles, a cab, and two carriages were stored in the room where the fire started. The paint on these was so blistered and blackened that they will have to be re-painted. Tires on the automobile of Leo Brownell were blown up by the heat. Several other automobiles were stored in the building but the damage to them was inconsequential, being caused by water from the fire hose.

Amendment to Recall Law Applying To Commission Cities Now Goes To Assembly.

Passage of the Ackley bill to amend the recall law applying to cities under commission rule, was affected in the state senate yesterday. The measure was adopted as reported from the committee of public welfare together with the changes which they made in the original bill. The measure now goes to the assembly where it will doubtless receive favorable action.

This action by the legislature is especially interesting at this time when the local recall faction has just initiated court proceedings in the matter of the three recall lists filed against the Janesville councilmen. The main feature of the amendment is to increase the number of signers required from 25 to 33 1/3 percent of the registered electorate. The recall bill is given below:

To amend subsection 3 of section 925m-37, relating to the removal of city officers by recall.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Subsection 3 of section 925-307, relating to the removal of section 3. The mayor or other councilman may be removed at any time after such officer has actually held office for one year, in the following manner: A petition shall be filed with the city clerk demanding the election of a successor to the person sought to be removed. Such petition shall contain a general statement of the grounds constituting the reasons upon which the removal is sought.

which grounds shall be stated in plain and concise language and without regard to technical rules or form of expression. Such petition shall be signed by electors entitled to vote for successor to the incumbent equal in number to at least one-third of the entire vote cast in such city for all candidates for governor at the last preceding general election. No election shall hereafter be held to effect such removal unless the petition therefor shall have been filed in conformity with this section.

Signatures to such petition may be upon different pieces of paper bearing the same or substantially similar headings.

Section 2. This act takes effect on and after July 1, 1913.

WATER POWER POOR BECAUSE OF THE ICE

Electric Light Plant and Doty Works Unable to Start Water Wheels Because of Ice.

Ice and high water caused great trouble at the power houses of the Janesville Electric Light company last night and today. The two plants at Janesville were badly crippled last night because of ice gathering in front of the grates, shutting off the water from the wheels. Great complaint was made because of slushy ice floating through the grates and binding the water wheels. This ice is a source of great trouble and the main plant was forced to shut down last night for a short time and the water wheels were so badly clogged this morning at the New Doty Works that it took some time before the workmen could start them.

Very little power was received from either the Fulton and Indian Ford plants where the same trouble was experienced. Last night the seven hundred horsepower turbine at the main plant was put in operation as the water-wheels did not furnish enough power. This morning a force of workmen were put to work keeping the grates free from ice and after great difficulty started the wheels. The power was off shortly after eight o'clock this morning and the street cars were idle for a period of twenty minutes.

Great quantities of ice are coming down the river at the present time and at several places it has gathered and formed small jams. This ice is from the lakes and it is probable it will be some time before it all goes out. This ice affords little trouble as it is so rotten that it either breaks up at the bridges or at the dam. The ice that is giving so much trouble forms at the bottom of the river, in slushy masses, and arises to the top on striking undercurrents. The high water below the dam has caused trouble because of the backwater and only allows about four feet of headwater from the forebay into the wheel pit, while the river in normal condition furnishes about nine. The river is gradually receding, but this morning the ice jamming in several spots caused the water to raise above the dam, and the mark showed thirty-five and a half inches.

BUTCHERS' ANNUAL DANCE HAD A LARGE ATTENDANCE

Over Two Hundred Couples Present at Party—Hatch's Orchestra Furnished the Music.

With an attendance of two hundred couples, a popular program of dance music by the Hatch orchestra, and the hall decorated in an original and attractive manner, the annual dance of the Janesville butchers held last evening was an unqualified success. Encores to the dance numbers were numerous and well responded to. The committee having charge of the affair were: W. J. Conroy, George Berger, Frank M. Joyce, Charles Bier and Fred Cochran. It was decided to hold another annual ball at about the same time next year.

"OUR WIVES."
Richard Henry Little says of "Our Wives," here on Saturday:
"Among all the multitudinous openings of this busy week one of the best shows of all slipped into town wearing sneak shoes and is tucked away at the Cort theatre waiting to be discovered. Let us discover it right away, for it is as bright, new and refreshing as the dew on the roses on a morning in June."

"Our Wives" is the name of the play, with that easy mannered, highly finished actor, Henry Kohlker, as the star, and a winsome young woman, Pamela Gaythorne, an artist to her finger tips, as second in command.

"Our Wives" is an intimate little play that shows us human nature as faithfully as a camera does a landscape.

The theme of "Our Wives" doesn't sound so very important when you try to tell it, but the story is worked out with such sincerity and in such a natural manner that you are half tempted to believe while you are form a business partnership in the writing of a libretto, he stipulated with her that each one was to regard the other as sexless. The two were to be only parts of a machine that was to grind out plays and best seller novels and the like. The girl was to be known simply as "Wilson," probably because that was to be about all for her, as far as her femininity was concerned.

"BROADWAY JONES."
"Broadway" Jones, the new comedy from the pen of George M. Cohan, which is now the distinct success of the present season in New York City, comes to the Myers Theatre Friday evening, April 4. The play tells the story of a young man, "Broadway" Jones, who, in his endeavor to "burn up Broadway," finds himself penniless and heavily in debt. He is popularly supposed to be immensely wealthy, and in his desperation he engages himself to a rich widow, old enough to be his mother. Just as things look blackest for him and he is watching the play that you are peering into somebody else's house and eavesdropping.

PAMELA GAYTHORNE AND HENRY KOLKER IN "OUR WIVES" AT MYERS THEATRE (Matinee and Night) SATURDAY, MAR. 29.

"The Cort theatre is the ideal place for 'Our Wives' for the play is of the intimate kind that demands a small theatre to show to its best advantage. We've all seen 'Our Wives' enacted many times, but not by that name or at the Cort theatre. We've seen it over at the Splasher's dinner party or out at the country club, and here, and there, and everywhere. We've all seen the devoted chums who have vowed with tears in their eyes that when they were married they would take their wives into the corporation and be closer friends than ever. Oh, no, marriage wasn't going to cause a drifting apart. Not on your life!"

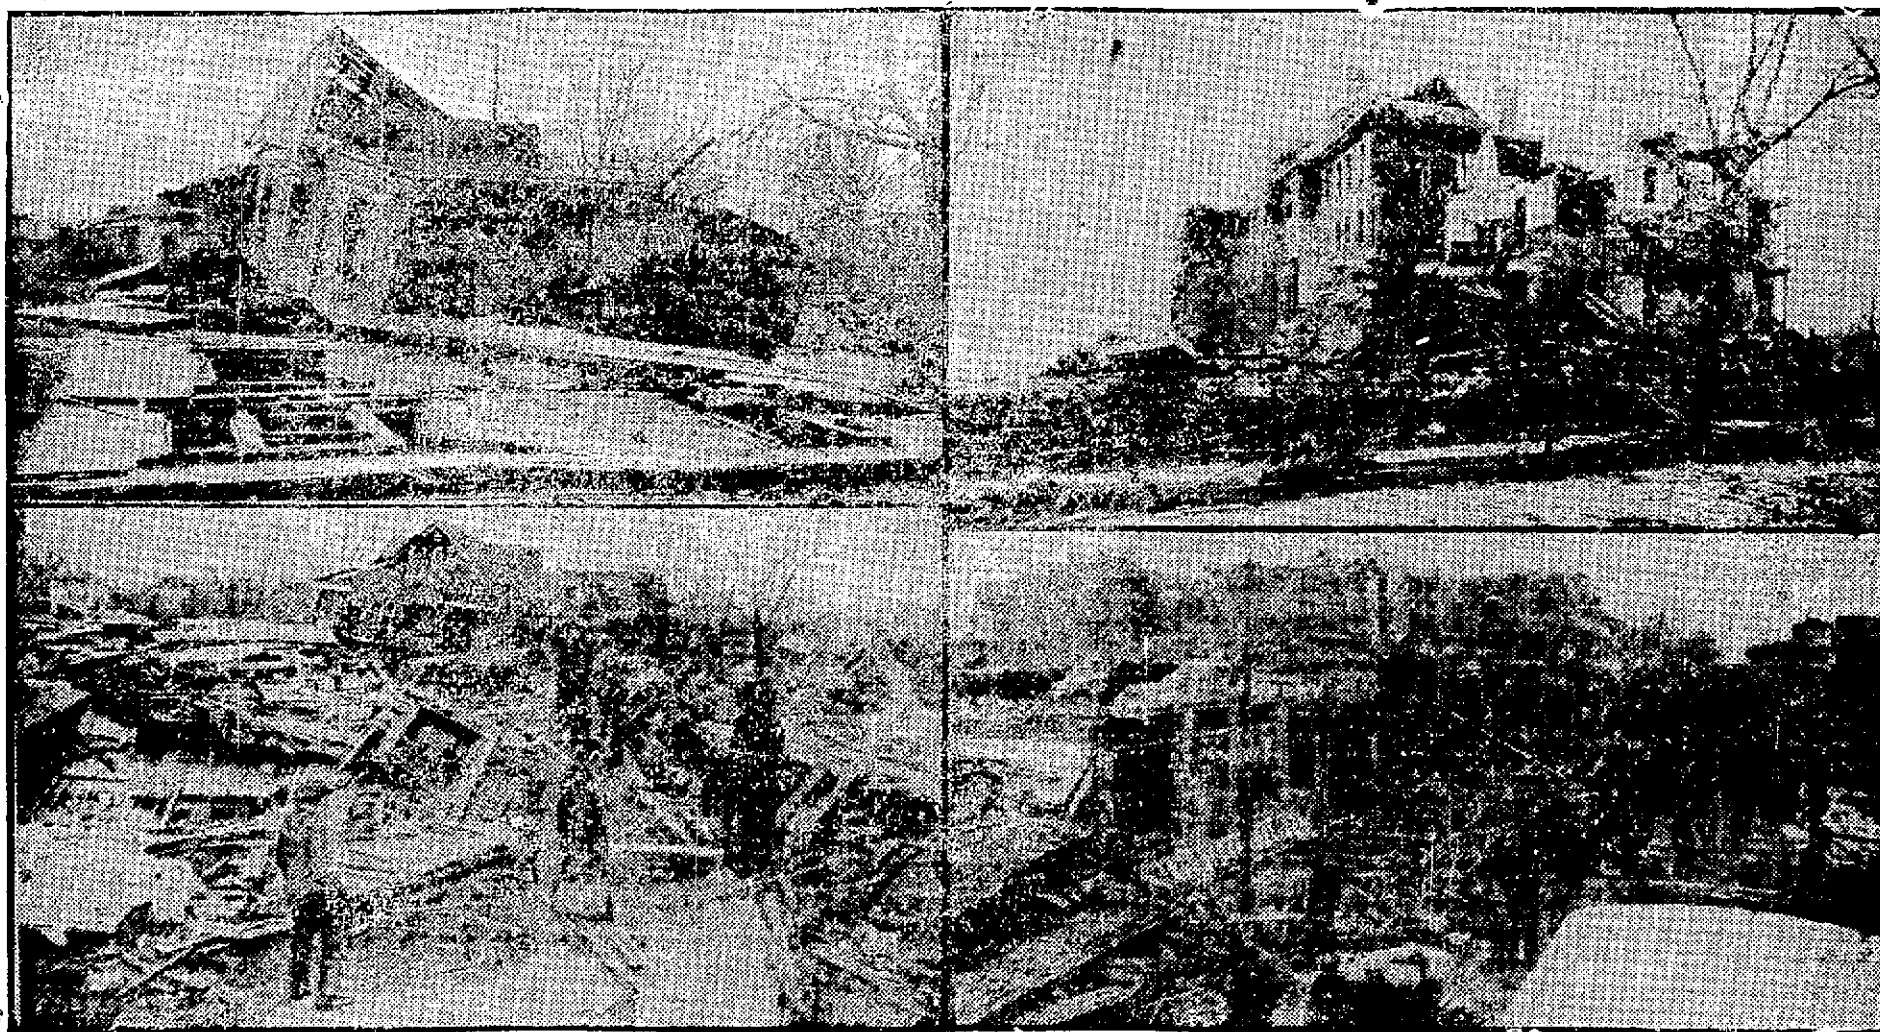

Each man was going to marry the sweetest girl in the world who would just simply come right into the bunch and make the friendship stronger than ever. And then the chums got married and things happened. That's the story in "Our Wives."

There were four cronies who solemnly pledged each other while at college that when they married they would all come together with their wives and be closer pals than they had ever been before. Three of the chums married. The fourth was opposed to matrimony. He couldn't see it from any standpoint, and he took the vow to remain a bachelor forever and ever. He hated women so much that when he found a young woman of genius with whom he decided to preparing to submit to his fate, a wealthy uncle dies, leaving "Broadway" Jones heir to a chewing gum factory in Jonesville, Connecticut. His first thought is to dispose of his property for anything it will bring, and to make his good fortune even better, he receives a splendid offer from the Chewing Gum Trust, who want the factory out of the way. He goes to Jonesville to have a look at his property, and there meets his fate, in the pretty bookkeeper of the chewing gum factory, who was also his uncle's private secretary. She persuades him to retain the factory and conduct it himself, as the trust proposes to wreck the factory if they obtain possession of it, which would throw a large number of men out of work, as it is the principal industry in the little Connecticut town. Jones listens to the girl's pleading and does not dispose of the factory. He runs it himself, and aided by the girl's advice, makes a fortune from his inheritance. The girl proves to be "the only one" and "Broadway" Jones wins her for his wife. The play is full of good, clean comedy and sparkling fun. It is free from slang, and is told in the breezy Cohan style found only in a play from the pen of this brilliant young author.

The cast that will present "Broadway" Jones in this city includes John Webster, Ralph Morgan, George Schaefer, Caroline Lill, George C. Staley, Daniel Burns, Jack Pierce, Taylor, Edith Luckett, Grace Morrissey, Charles H. Henderson and others.

OHIO MAN DECLARES FREIGHT TRAFFIC OF FUTURE WILL BE UPON PAVED ROADS, NOT RAILROADS; MONEY SAYS SO, TOO

B. A. Seiberling and Paved Brick Road Between Cleveland and Akron, Now Much Used by Auto Trucks.

Akron, O.—Three hundred thousand dollars, a single donation toward the "coast-to-coast" highway, voices the faith that P. A. Seiberling, rubber manufacturer, reposes in the future of the power vehicle.

Money talks—so runs the adage—and when Seiberling feels strongly on any subject, his money usually joins in the conversation. From this very fact it came to pass that the world at large first heard of his name some thing more than a year ago. Vaniman, the aeronaut, was convinced that the ocean could be crossed by air craft. He sought out Seiberling, who concurred in his argument to the extent of $100,000 or more. Defeat resulted together with considerable addition to air lore; but defeat neither unseats Seiberling's opinions nor weakens the faith with which he back them.

Trucks to Rival Trains?
He has a vision of the day when paved roads will connect every center of population and predicts that power trucks will soon be serious rivals of the railroads for freight hauls of moderate length.

"When," he said in a recent speech, "we have developed a good roads system comparable to the continental highways of Europe, connecting towns, villages and cities with automobile travel; with power vehicles carrying their traffic under schedule as railroads are now doing; when we shall have handled all the traffic on our streets with the commercial car, and when the produce of the farmer is delivered with motor trucks it is no stretch of the imagination to say that this business in its aggregate will exceed the entire business of the railroads of the United States."

Seiberling has ground for his belief in the future of paved roads. His home town of Akron is a center of brick manufacture and enjoys communication north and south over a model brick road fifty miles in length. Tests have proven that packages freight can be hauled over this and similar roads at a cost of five cents per ton mile.

Has Many Advantages.
A five-ton shipment from Akron to Cleveland, therefore, would cost 25 cents a ton mile, which would total something less than $9 for the trip, as the route is about 35 miles long.

Railroads charge from $5 to $9.50 for a five-ton load over the same route. Where these rates do not at present leave an actual mile-for-mile advantage in favor of truck transport, shippers say that convenience and saving of terminal handling more than covers the slight advantage which the railroad offers.

A truck travels from factory to destination in a single haul. A freight car must be located, loaded, routed, placed and unloaded. For hauls of less than fifty miles, say the truck advocates, drayage to and from cars and reloading are often more costly than direct haulage by truck.

DINNER STORIES

The inexperienced district school teacher had exhausted all other expedients for the maintenance of discipline. Going out into the school yard she broke off a good-sized switch that was growing there and administered primitive punishment to Jimmy Kelley.

There were strange expressions of horrified amazement on the faces of the children, and when school was dismissed at noon they gathered in excited groups and talked in whispers. Finally the teacher's curiosity could stand it no longer. Calling Henry Thomas to her she demanded the cause of the discussions.

"Why—why—why, teacher?" he stammered. "That—that switch you licked Jimmy with—that was the tree we all set out last Arbor Day."

PROMISED EXPOSURE OF SEED FRAUDS IS ATTACKED BY ROSA

Beloit Assemblyman Figures Prominently in Hearing Before Agricultural Committee.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., March 27.—The promised exposure of seed frauds in Wisconsin did not materialize at the hearing before the committee on agriculture yesterday afternoon. Before the hearing had adjourned Assemblyman Charles D. Rosa of Beloit had completely uncovered the ruse. Even Assemblyman Mahon had to admit that he had no evidence to produce, and he claimed that his chief witness, an agent of a Chicago seed house, had left town.

Before the hearing had concluded Assemblyman Rosa, who is also a farmer, showed that it was absolutely impossible to tell from the looks of alfalfa seed whether it was grown in Montana or any other part of the United States; and that the proper way to reach the selling of seed as raised in one locality, when in fact it was grown in another, was to immediately place a law on our statute books forbidding such practice. At present there is no law in the state that will reach cases of this kind. "What is needed is a law upon our statute books that will wipe out misrepresentations of this kind by seed houses," declared Mr. Rosa. "No expensive investigation by the state costing thousands of dollars is necessary."

These facts were brought out to the committee by the cross-examination of Prof. R. A. Moore and A. L. Stone, the two seed experts of the University of Wisconsin, by Judge Rosa. Prof. Moore further testified that the seed business in the state is on a basis of honesty at the present time immeasurably ahead of what it was four years ago when the first seed law was enacted. He said that imperfections in the present statute had been discovered and that he had drafted a bill to cure these imperfections and curb the frauds that are now complained of and that the legislature is asked to investigate through a committee. The testimony of Prof. Stone was much along the line offered by Prof. Moore, that they were already alert in eradicating the evils complained of. At the opening of the hearing Assemblyman Mahon claimed that the farmers of the state are being defrauded out of thousands of dollars, through the purchase of impure seed. It is understood that the resolution will be reported for death.

SECOND CHOICE LAW CALLED A FAILURE

Bill to Repeal Mary Ann Act Meets With Approval at Committee Hearing Wednesday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., March 27.—That the second choice law as it has operated in the primary elections of Wisconsin is a failure was the tenor of the remarks made yesterday afternoon by Assemblyman B. P. Kneen of La Crosse county in a hearing yesterday afternoon before the assembly committee on elections. He claimed that the law was cumbersome and could never be made a success.

"In La Crosse county it took days to ascertain who had been nominated for sheriff," said Mr. Kneen. "The returns had to be sent back for correction in a number of precincts. We are still waiting to find out who was nominated as candidates for the office of public works at the primary held last week."

The bill under consideration before the committee was the Roessler bill to repeal the Mary Ann law. Besides Mr. Kneen, Assemblyman Roessler and Judson Hall appeared and asked that the law be wiped off the statute books. Hall declared that the system was no good and that most officers are now nominated by a large plurality. There is a general disposition on the part of the committee not to do away with the law, but to limit its application to state officers. Mr. Kneen thought such a law would be workable. Assemblyman Judson Hall spoke in favor of his measure, which provides that tally sheets kept at any election shall be attached to the returns and made a part of them. By quoting sections of the election laws he showed that there was nothing to prevent a man putting the tally sheet in his pocket and carrying away from the booth, after the votes had been counted.

A revision of the corrupt practice act was advocated to the committee by Assemblyman Don C. Hall. His bill would eliminate many of the present features of the law. He said the present law was too complicated and asserted that many of the provisions of the statute were useless.

NOTED MEN WILL ADDRESS SOUTHERN INDIANA TEACHERS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—By steam and interurban roads the hundreds of members of the Southern Indiana Teachers' Association poured into the capital today for their annual convention. The formal opening takes place this evening and the sessions will continue until the end of the week. The program this year is remarkable for the large numbers of noted men scheduled as speakers. Included in the list are President William L. Bryan of Indiana University, President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin College, and Edward Mead, of Boston, secretary of the World's Peace Foundation.

BANKS SEEK RELIEF FROM TAX BURDENS

Representatives Appear Before Taxation Committee to Urge Bill Exempting Them From Income Taxation

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 27.—Wisconsin banks through representatives brought the finance and assembly taxation committees yesterday to relieve them from some of the income tax burden which the law now imposes. Support was given by them to the Kileen bill, No. 855, which exempts the income of banks, state and national. It was contended by Edwin S. Mack, who appeared for Milwaukee banks, that with their taxation nationally the banks are subjected to double taxation. He believed appeal should be made to congress to remove conflict in the application of state and federal income taxation.

Banks Pay Too Much.
Thomas S. Adams of the tax commission replied that this would be advisable were the only problem of relief of inequality as between banks, but he said it involves also the question of permitting stockholders to use their receipts for bank dividends, paid as personally, as offsets to their income tax. This had been done the past year, and the bill proposed to check the practice, he said.

Attorney Mack said that with Wisconsin's income tax system working successfully, the federal plan does not well fit in. He suggested that congress pass a law permitting the state to apply its income tax to its national banks. He said Wisconsin banks pay a larger proportionate tax than those in Chicago, St. Paul or Michigan, and that they must meet the competition of larger aggregations of capital in adjoining states. Hence, they should not be asked to bear unusual burdens of taxation. In view of the federal statute recently passed, he believed the Wisconsin law as it affects banks would be found invalid.

Fear Double Taxation.
E. M. Wing, a La Crosse banker, took the same view, maintaining that the Wisconsin law applied simultaneously with the federal statute would result in double taxation.

Prof. Adams of the tax commission asserted that had the income tax law been applied to the public service corporations their personal property would have been wiped out. He believed that dividends received from bank stocks should not be taxed against the individual holders. He claimed that stockholders have used their individual personal tax receipts to secure the offsets to their income tax, and that a bank sometimes wipes out its income tax by presenting the property tax receipts. Senator Teasdale said that as a stockholder in a Spanish bank he had been paying an individual income tax on his bank dividends, not being "wise enough," he added, to claim exemption. Senator Teasdale declared that to exempt banks would relieve them of tax payments at the expense of the poor people.

Would Include Nationals.
George D. Bartlett, secretary of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, asked that national banks be placed on the same plan with state banks and be made subject to taxation under the state income tax law. He believed that fairness would be gained out of the bill the clause which says that no receipt for taxes paid on the capital stock of any bank shall be allowed as an offset against any income tax levied.

Robert McMynn, appearing for the Marshall & Ilsey bank, Milwaukee, argued that inequality should be removed by this legislature.

Gigantic Bog Oak Tree.
Twenty tons of bog oak were recently unearthed at Llanwrtyd Wells, Wales. It measures 48 feet long with a diameter of 2 feet 9 inches. This giant oak tree is by far the largest which has been found within memory on the peat land near Llanwrtyd. Portions of it have been exposed for some years, but no one thought of such dimensions and no interest was taken in it until a few days ago.

"BOMBARD WILSON," SUFFRAGE SLOGAN

Miss Alice Paul.

The suffragists, led by Miss Alice Paul, have begun to fight in earnest for an amendment to the U. S. constitution, providing for equal suffrage.

The president is going to be commended all along the line, recently declared Miss Paul. "Women suffrage organizations throughout the country will pass resolutions calling on Mr. Wilson to recommend an amendment to the constitution providing for woman suffrage. The president will hear from women who favor our cause a cry day from now until congress meets."

TORRENTIAL FLOODS CLAIM MANY LIVES

from everywhere since Tuesday morning by the floods which today are four feet higher than ever before. Hotel Collapses.

Hamilton, O., March 27.—The Lakeview hotel in the residence part of the town has just collapsed. It is said that fifty people took refuge there earlier in the day. Ten bodies were recovered from the ruins in the first hour of search. It is believed 250 persons are dead here. Among the first to be recovered were two detectives and three policemen.

Snow and Sleet.
Huntington, Ind., March 27.—There is a heavy snow and sleet storm in progress here and the thermometer is 10 degrees above zero. Local trains are being run by the Erie railway from Chicago to Marietta, Ohio.

Dead and Dying.
Dayton, March 27.—The crowded north side of the river where it is feared there may be thousands of foreigners dead and dying is still beyond reach. No one speaks of it. The immediate need is of the known survivors calling for every attention.

If the down town section is relieved by night it may permit the city authorities to get together with the militia and the relief committees and make some organized attempt to give aid to the north side town row.

At Peoria.
Peoria, Ind., March 27.—Although high water prevents search of the district which suffered most in Monday's flood the authorities asserted at noon today that 100 persons are missing and 50 are dead.

Find Bodies.
Dayton, March 27.—(via Miami)—Many bodies are being removed from the river at Riverdale. They are being piled three deep along the bank according to work just received at the Western Union headquarters. The estimate of dead 5,000 is apparently nearly correct. The total number of dead will never be known. Snow began falling again this afternoon.

General Holiday.
Columbus, O., March 27.—Governor Cox today issued a proclamation declaring a holiday in all districts flooded in Ohio for the next ten days. This was done to protect negotiable papers that might be subject to presentation.

Kentucky River Up.
Frankfort, Ky., March 27.—The Kentucky river is higher here today than at any other time in the last 20 years. The river is now swelling to well its already flooded Ohio. The 36 foot stage was reached here today and the river is rising at the rate of two inches an hour.

Under Martial Law.
Indianapolis, March 27.—Governor Ralston this noon declared West Indianapolis under martial law. Vandalism started to rob and pillage and a company of the state troops was rushed into the district. A number of arrests were made.

Loss of Life Heavy.
Columbus, Ohio, March 27.—With Ohio's rivers and streams subsiding today the state is emerging from the greatest flood Ohio has ever known. The loss of life has been heavy. The full extent of it will never be known until the waters have receded. When the full account is made it is believed the total death list for the state will run over 2,000 and that the property damage will amount to one hundred millions.

Dayton Worst.
Dayton is the worst affected of the many cities affected by the flood. Not only has the death list from drowning there been extremely heavy, but fire which raged unchecked early today threatened to destroy the business section. George F. Burba, private secretary to Governor Cox, made a hazardous trip to Dayton and last night reported the property loss would amount to $50,000,000 and the deaths would approximate 1,000.

Militia on Hand.
From all parts of the state militia equipped with food and blankets are hastening to the relief of Dayton sufferers and it was reported last night the advance guard was patrolling the principal streets in boats and checking incipient ruffianism. The appeal of Governor Cox for outside help has received quick response. Today provisions, coats and supplies of all kinds were being hurried from neighboring states.

Graphic Tale.
Plymouth, O., March 27.—A graphic description of the horrors of the flood that is believed to have swept 200 or more residents of Peru, Indiana, to watery graves, and made thousands homeless was given today by Gilbert Kessler, one of the heroes of the calamity. Weary, tired eyed and almost unnerved from loss of sleep and the sight he had witnessed young Kessler staggered from the relief train of the stricken city. Kessler's most vivid picture was the suicide of several fear crazed women who leaped from little rescue boats. The roaring current and the terrible fight, he declared, had maddened them. "It was too awful ever to forget," said Kessler with a shudder. "It was cold and damp and misty and the sight of that black water rushing on pitilessly just seemed to take the heart out of most of us especially the women."

MANY HUGE FRAUDS CHARGED TO WOMAN

Columbus, O., March 17.—Mrs. Emma Bothwell, whom the detectives call the queen of confidence women, was given a preliminary hearing before the United States commissioner in this city today on charges of having lured wealthy men in a half dozen cities out of thousands of dollars within the past few months. According to the authorities the woman's method was to write her alleged victims claiming to be in delicate health and demanding money with which to provide for an operation. Under another name she is alleged to have written claiming to be a sister to Mrs. Bothwell, and representing that the latter had died from the effects of an operation. From $200 to $500 was asked to pay hospital and burial expenses. Exposure was threatened in the event of a refusal. The woman's alleged victims are said to include men of wealth and prominence in Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, South Bend, Wilkesbarre and other cities.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

IMPROVING ON REALITY.

HOW much more attractive than the reality one can make anything sound by telling about it in a clever way!

And how often people do that!

A former neighbor of ours is now living in a distant city. Since her departure from our midst she has regaled us with letters so full of the beautiful home in which she lives, and the wonderful friends she has made that we have all been quite green with envy. I say "have been" because that is all past. Recently another neighbor was visiting in the same city and since her return we have felt more satisfied with our humble lot.

Our former neighbor wrote us she was living in a beautiful, old-fashioned house with twelve rooms, three baths and a small conservatory. That was all true, but she quite forgot to mention that she only has part of the house, and that she pays for that part by caring for the old gentleman to whom the property belongs.

She conjured up visions of elegance by telling us that she lived on a certain street, which is almost world-famous as a center of wealth and aristocracy. Of course she didn't explain that the street is very long and the part in which she lives is no more fashionable than our own neighborhood.

She wrote nonchalantly of attending a tea given by a famous authoress, and chatted about the lady in question in a manner that made us think they were old friends. The truth of the matter was that the tea was a public affair given for charity, and she has never met the authoress before or since.

And so with one light touch after another, without a single untruth, but with innumerable clever half-truths, she drew us a pretty picture of which we gazed fascinated, just as she meant we should.

Now that the traveler has turned the harsh light of full truth on the pretty picture, and sketched in some of the less attractive lines, we are inclined to laugh at our old neighbor, and yet, are you and I never guilty? Don't we ever draw half-truth pictures for our friends?

"Half the pleasure of my trip abroad came from thinking how I would describe my good times to my friends," said one of those rare people who try to be frank with themselves. "Even when I wasn't having such a very good time I'd think how delightful I could make it sound."

Few of us make such frank admissions, but if we did I fancy we should often have similar confessions to make.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

or again thickening the juice with a little whole wheat flour and seasoning. Bermuda onions are very sweet, and are always liked for either cooking or seasoning.

Baked Onions.

Materials—Onions, 6; bread crumbs, 1/2 cup; chopped nuts, 1/2 c.; chopped parsley, 1 tsp.; salt and paprika; melted butter.

Utensils—Baking dish, measuring cup, teaspoon, bowl and sauce pan. Directions—Peel and boil the onions, uncovered, in a very little water for fifteen minutes. Save one-half cup of the water in which they were boiled and add one tablespoonful of butter for basting. Mix all the remaining ingredients and mix with the thin, chopped onion, which has been scooped from the center of the onions, season with salt and paprika and refill, set into a baking pan and bake. Baste often with the water and melted butter. These have both meat and vegetable food elements.

Onions should be as much of a staple article of vegetable in every home as potatoes. There is no limit to their uses for flavoring in meats, stews, soups, sauces, salads, salad dressings or entrees. It is necessary, however, not to use too much, or it will kill the original flavor of the dish. If grated, instead of sliced, when used raw they are more easily digested. In salads or sandwiches when mixed with dressings or meats they make a smoother dressing.

If a little chopped parsley is mixed with it or a sprig eaten after eating the onion, very little if any odor is noticed. Eat them freely and believe the old saying, "Eat onions in May, no doctors you'll pay."

per dolls in it; or you may be able to buy a papier mache canoe in a store and put little china dolls in it. Have a little island of moss, with small swans and ducks to put on the mirror as if they were swimming. A glass bowl of flowers in the center will be pretty.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

BY FRIENDSHIP I mean the greatest love and the greatest usefulness and the most open communication and the noblest satisfactions and the most exemplary faithfulness and the severest truth and the heartiest counsel and the greatest union of mind of which brave men and women are capable.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Wash, scrape and parboil a half dozen parsnips. Split a young chicken down the back and lay in a dripping pan, skin side up. Arrange the sliced parsnips around the chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with bits of butter, cover with thin slices of salt pork, add enough hot water to prevent burning, and bake until the vegetable and chicken is tender.

Fry slices of thick, meaty tomatoes in olive oil, season with onion juice and salt, with a dash of cayenne. Serve with lamb chops or veal croquettes.

A thick slice of tomato, sprinkled with chopped onion and served with French dressing is a good and pretty salad.

Cocoanut Drop Cakes.—Softened a half cup of butter, but do not melt it, add a cup of light brown sugar, a cup of sour milk, a teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves, and soda, two cups of flour; beat all together thoroughly, then add a half cup of shredded cocoanut. Drop by small spoonfuls on buttered sheets and bake in a moderate oven. Add more flour if the cakes do not keep their shape.

English Muffins.—Dissolve a yeast cake in a quart of lukewarm milk, add a teaspoonful of salt and add enough flour to make a good batter; set to rise. When light, stir in a half cup of melted butter, and when well blended and light again, pour into muffin pans and rise. When very light, bake. Serve toasted. Butter generously and serve hot.

Marmalade Pudding.—Mix a cup of flour with the same amount of stale crumbs and beef suet chopped fine, one egg, a half teaspoonful of salt, and a cup of marmalade, orange or any other kind; turn into a buttered bowl, tie up in a cloth and steam three hours. Serve with hard sauce.

Mrs. Lillian Anderson Certain. When Lillian Anderson gave up her illegitimate babe in a San Francisco doctor's office in September, 1910, she knew only that it was sold to a "wealthy woman" and did not know her name. The "wealthy woman" was Mrs. Dorothy Cutler Singsby, an American wife of a retired British naval officer, who substituted the illegitimate child for her own which had been stillborn. Mrs. Singsby paid $50 for the child. Lillian Anderson married Fred Certain, a navy man, in San Francisco last July and have established a home in Marion.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

Why They Were Parasites

I ATTENDED a lecture today," said Phoebe to the little group in the studio, "and—"

"I thought you looked improved," interrupted one of the girls. "I do not know that I am improved," said Phoebe, "but I am awfully saddened."

"Goodness!" exclaimed the crowd. "What happened?"

"I discovered I am a parasite," replied Phoebe, mournfully. "Now my idea of a parasite is that it is something that eats roses, and is treated to a dose of slugshot. And I am wondering whether I am doomed either to destroy the rose-leaves of life, or to be given a bath of insecticide."

"What makes you a parasite?" asked Marjorie.

"Because I eat rose leaves," replied Phoebe, gloomily; "or to be scientific, because I consume and don't produce, or to be frank because I do nothing useful."

"What could you do?" inquired another of the girls.

"That's the trouble," responded Phoebe. "Even if I did something useful, I don't see the use in doing it. Suppose I went about and trimmed hats, or made dresses, or scrubbed floors. What would be the value of my doing it? I would be employing my time, to be sure, but I do that anyway. I don't need the money I would earn; and somebody else might need very badly, the money I would be getting for a job that otherwise might be hers."

"That's just it," broke in one of the girls. "It's all very well to tell us not to be parasites. But why aren't we told what to do. I'm doing self-interest work. But I feel I am just putting in time. It is nothing vitally far as myself is concerned."

"You're right," said another girl. "I've been made president of the Town Improvement Society, and we are hustling around trying to see how we can improve this village of ours. It's all very well, and I hope we'll make it the City Beautiful. But it is a case of my hunting the work, not the work hunting me. I would rather feel there was some definite demand for me, which nobody but myself could fill. Then I would feel that I was really of use."

"I embroider," said another girl. "And burn wood, and hammer brass, and do such things; but I can't say I am wildly excited about them or that the world wouldn't wag on just the same if I didn't do them."

"And I class dust," joined in Helen. "But I can't see the absolute necessity of a house being spotless. And I might as well sit and twirl my thumb as darn stockings; for I can hire someone to darn them who probably needs the money."

"I guess we'll just have to make up our minds to being parasites," said Phoebe, "whether we want to or not. Only, I do hope," and she gave an apprehensive glance over her shoulder, "that nobody will come around and give us a dose of slugshot."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Old English Potato Pie—One pound round steak, two medium-sized onions, two quarts potatoes. Cut ingredients in dice and place in layers in pie dish until filled; season with pepper and salt; cover with water and make thick pie crust of half hard and butter. Cover and bake in moderately heated oven 1 1/2 hours. When brown, serve. This is a very cheap, delicious dinner for four persons.

Corn Bread With Yeast—Into one pint of boiling water stir two-thirds cup of cornmeal and cook as if for mush, then take from fire and add one pint of scalded milk and one level teaspoon salt. When lukewarm, add a yeast cake dissolved in four table-spoons cool water, and one pint white flour. Beat thoroughly, cover and let rise in warm place for three hours, then mix in sufficient white flour to make a dough stiff enough to knead well. Knead until it becomes elastic, and mold into loaves, cakes and let rise in a warm place until very light, which will take about 1 1/2 hours. Brush with water and bake in quick oven 45 minutes.

Boston Cream Pie—Crust part: Two eggs beaten five minutes, beat one cup sugar with the eggs; add two table-spoons milk, 1 1/2 cups flour, two table-spoons baking powder sifted with the flour. Bake in two pans. When nearly cold cut the layers in two and put the following filling between:

Filling: One cup milk, pinch of salt, one table-spoon flour, one table-spoon vanilla. Cook in pan until it boils, then spread between layers.

Soft Ginger Cake—One cup sugar, half cup butter, two eggs, two-thirds cup sour milk, one table-spoon soda, a little salt, 2 1/2 cups flour.

In a small family one does not care for a large cake at one time. Bake the amount you care for, use the remaining dough in a cool place and bake when wanted. This dough can be kept for two weeks or longer, and will be as light as when first baked. This can be done with any cake requiring sour milk and soda.

Stains. Oil Spots—By applying a liquid made of four parts alcohol and one part ammonia, half as much ether as ammonia, oil spots on clothing, they can be removed.

Paint or Varnish—Oil of turpentine or benzine will remove spots of paint or varnish or pitch from woolen or colored goods.

Ink Spots—A little ammonia in a few spoonfuls of alcohol will remove spots; also will make dresses which are "shiny" lose their shine.

Stains on Mattresses—Make a thick paste by wetting starch with cold water. Spread this paste on the stain, put the mattress in the sun; rub off in an hour or two. If the ticking is not clean, try process again.

To Put Away Furs. The time is soon here to put furs away. Canphor and moth balls always were a failure with me. I found this a good way. Take two pieces of cloth large enough to wrap the furs in—old bed sheets will do. Lay out on sheet and sprinkle full of red pepper. Now lay on the other sheet, having pepper between the two. Now wrap up your furs and rest assured the moths will keep away from them.

TALKS WITH MOTHERS

Temptations of Mothers. No position in life assures to the parent, occupying it, freedom from temptation, not even the sheltered life of the home.

What you are depends largely on the way you have met the opportunity to do wrong. What your children are to be depends to a great degree on the way you meet the opportunity to do right, and thus give to them the start in life to which they are justly entitled.

Too many mothers, because of their great suffering and boundless love, think of their children as their possession; they do not stop to think that each child represents a different combination of physical and mental traits, to be developed in a different environment that each such combination requires more study than the most difficult problem in mathematics.

So to the great majority of us there come many temptations to do the thing easiest at the time, with no thought of the effect our action may have on the future life of the child. Mothers' temptations may be divided into two classes: those that emanate from a love so overwhelming as to obscure the mental vision, and those that have their origin in the pressure of other duties or pleasures.

Among the first might be mentioned the temptation to handle the little one too much. This is done by many women to satisfy a hunger for sympathy in their own hearts, and by others to gratify their vanity. When a mother, particularly a young mother, thinks more of the opinions of her neighbors and friends regarding the little stranger in the home, than she does of the child's comfort, so often errs in her endeavor to show him off. Again there is so much comfort in cuddling, and rocking, and kissing that sweet little bundle of pink and white that costs the mother so much, that she is often led into excesses, which result in the youngster demanding more of time and strength than is his right, besides establishing habits that must be overcome in days to come.

Other temptations are to allow a light in the room at night; to talk too much, thus interfering with the child's growth in the power to concentrate; to over-indulge, resulting in wills weaker than desires; to allow the establishment of bad habits such as sucking, nail-biting, dirt-eating and bed-wetting.

Because it keeps them quiet, mother frequently encourage their children to suck their thumbs or fingers, sometimes the clothing or blanket, often the "pacifier" or rubber nipple. Such a habit, if persisted in, may produce misshapen mouth or fingers; it aggravates disturbance of digestion; and is one of the hardest "bad habits" to break.

Most mothers, in fact I think I can safely say all mothers, sometime or other yield to temptations arising from the pressure of home cares or social pleasure. The mother of a child under school age should be relieved of as much of the routine of house-keeping as the family income and the family love and consideration can make possible. If any class of people need an organized "Labor Union" it is the kitchen-bound mothers.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I belong to a choir; a committee of three girls was elected to arrange a sociable the first Tuesday in April and as it happens, it will be the 1st of April. Can you suggest anything by which we might make it an April fool sociable and in what way we can play April fool tricks? We are anxious to serve lunch.

Decorate with artificial flowers and plants. Have some one at the door announce that nobody is at home, but that they may come in and wait. Then direct them where to remove their wraps.

Use paper luncheon sets and for the centerpiece have a doll dressed as a courtier. Give souvenirs of little canes or wands wound with ribbon and little bells. Sound a gong for refreshments, announcing that "dinner is not served." Begin with the dessert and finish with what ought to be the beginning of the meal. Have the refreshments full of surprises.

Ask the guests to tell the most foolish things that happened to them. Turn out the lights and pass around things which must be guessed. Show a lot of books, bric-a-brac and things on the floor. Blindfold a guest and tell him he will be fined for anything he breaks, cautioning him to step carefully. As he walks about, remove everything from his path. Then show him that he is wondering around on a perfectly clear floor, and shout April Fool.

Have April Fool tags distributed. The one who attaches his tags to others the quickest should have an April Fool prize; also the one who has the most tags on him.

ing. I wish to entertain 12 teachers some evening, including a six o'clock dinner.

(1)—What should I serve for a two-course dinner? (2)—What kind of place cards are used, some that are odd and pretty and not too expensive? (3)—What form of entertainment would you suggest? (4)—Is there any new way of decorating the table?

(1)—A two-course dinner would eliminate soup or a cocktail, though a fruit cocktail with salted wafers would be very tempting this time of year. For the meat course: Fried chicken with corn fritters, candied sweet potato, with combination vegetable salad. Coffee, cake and frozen custard would make a nice second course. (2)—If you can paint, decorate the cards with comic boys and girls. If the teachers have individual hobbies, they might be referred to in the shape or sentiment of each card in a bit of verse. Or, you might have the company read "verse," beginning with the guest at your left reading one line, the next one continuing, and so on until you, as the hostess, say "Amen." This is very pretty.

(3)—You might hold a mock examination, treating the teachers as pupils, and giving prizes for the most right answers. (4)—A pretty decoration is a small mirror. Take it out of the frame, set it in the middle of the table and surround the edge with moss or similar. Make a little boat of paper, with pe-

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

BALDNESS.
(By Howard L. Rann.)

BALDNESS is a melancholy affliction which never attacks anybody but the male sex. It is caused by the brain becoming too active and throwing off sparks which consume the roots of the hair. The female brain is not troubled with anything of this kind, as it has an outlet through the vocal chords which man cannot use on account of his rudimentary and self-protecting nature.

Thus we have presented to us the solemn truth that baldness is a sure sign of intellect.

No body ever went bald without first thinking long and deeply upon some abstruse subject, such as dandruff cures and patent hair renovators. Nobody ever saw a baldheaded man whose dome was not inflated with wrinkles caused by the effort of his intellect to escape from its environment and be at rest. Once in a while the intellect escapes and leaves a reverberating vacuum, without being missed by the owner or anybody else.

The first efforts of a man to go bald are seldom appreciated by his wife, who would prefer less intellect and more hair. She immediately institutes a course of home treatment, including such playful remedies as rubbing vasoline into the scalp at the most available point of contact with a new 65 hat, shampooing twice a week with a rich quality of cistern water and singeing the hair with a wax taper which he just as liable to land on the left ear of the victim anywhere else. It is a pitiful sight to see a full-grown husband in the hands of a determined woman who rubs soap suds into his eyes with one hand and jams a towel down his neck with the other, but the world is full of such painful scenery.

Baldness is more painful in the summer than in the winter, owing to the stealthy approach of the predatory fly, which comes up on the nose and sits from bump to bump with stinger extended. On this account a great many men wear the pleasing garment known as a skull cap, which gives them a repulsive and languid appearance.

The sap has risen in the trees, the buds are breaking forth; no longer do we shake and freeze in raw winds from the north; and everywhere we pilgrims go, the harbingers appear, to say there is an end to snow, to hint that spring is near. The housewife talks of thrilling "hats" she saw in "some one's" store, all floral things galore, and had confessed to a wish to voice a verbal song, and talks about a place where fish are thirty cents long. Old granddad makes his ancient thong convey him down the street; the children long to shake their shoes and try their naked feet. The agent leaves his winter haunt, with "easy" marks to plead, and sells them traps they do not want, and books they'll never read. The hero leaves the city, the sum for pasture fresh and new, and in the village jail the buny hole up a howdydo. The candidate begins to pass around his fat, smokes, composed are they of garden sass, including artichokes. LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair Coming Out?—If Dry, Brittle, Thin or Your Scalp Itches and is Full of Dandruff—Use "Danderine." Grows New Hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

COMPLICATION OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Yields to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Athens, Texas.—"I had a complication of diseases, some of them of long standing. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and some other things that you suggested. I must confess that I am much better in every way and have been relieved of some of the worst troubles. My neighbors say I look younger now than I did fifteen years ago."—Mrs. SARAH R. WHITLEY, Athens, Texas, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 92.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 30 years.

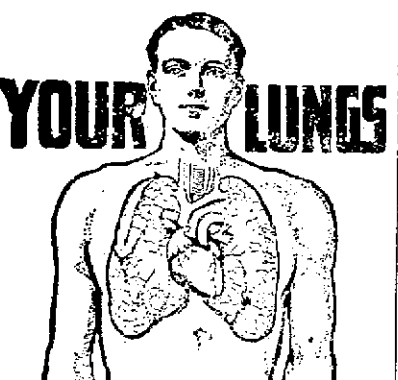

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of them state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Assigning the Cause.
"What an extraordinary curve your horse has in the spine," said a gentleman to an Irish farmer. "Can you account for it?" "By the powers, sir, and to be sure I am able. I have heard, sir, that before the beast was my property he was backed against another horse, your honor, who beat him hollow, and I daresay it's the reason that his back never got straight again."

Stops Falling Hair

Hall's Hair Renewer certainly stops falling hair. No doubt about it whatever. You will surely be satisfied.

ARE THEY WEAK OR PAINFUL?
Do your lungs ever bleed?
Do you have night sweats?

"Madam, be assured of our grateful appreciation. It is a long time since we have seen a woman's face. We are not exactly fixed up for company, but— At this point he looked into her shining eyes and in sudden overwhelming recognition exclaimed: 'Great heavens! Marie—Miss Mason—I am not mistaken!'"

"No, Tom," she answered sweetly. "You are not mistaken. Oh, what a horrid place!"

"Yes, you find us at a disadvantage. I say 'us' for, as you see, Ralph is here too."

"Oh, dear! how terrible! You poor, foolish boys! And how is it with you, Ralph?"

"Thank you—not much worse than when I parted from you at Lexington."

"What a pair of rash, headstrong boys! Why did you desert the south?"

"Wasn't it the south that did the deserting? Oh, but don't let us talk politics."

"It just breaks my heart to see you here, both of you—yes, all of you," said the young woman, looking around sympathetically. Then she took from under her cloak a cigar box and a couple of bottles wrapped in a newspaper and set them on the table beside the sorry looking wreck of the pumpkin pie.

"I've brought you a few cigars and things to cheer you up. Wasn't I thoughtful?"

"Bless your pretty face and gentle heart, miss," Deacon Hart said fervently. "What a pity you're secesh!"

"Well, she seems to lean toward the Union side anyway," whispered Colonel Cogswell, as Captain Cox and the fair visitor conversed in low, earnest tones, with their heads very close together.

"The Union men had gradually dropped behind the screen of a wooden partition at the far end of the room, while Captain Warner and the other Confederate officer stood just outside the door."

"Why, they have all gone," said the young woman, blushing slightly.

"General Winder, the provost marshal of Richmond."

"Yes, we do that when any one has a visitor. Marie, we are alone for a moment."

She buried her face in her handkerchief and began to weep.

"To think we should meet again like this!"

"You didn't come here just to say that, Marie. You are sickle, but not deliberately cruel."

"It is you who are cruel, when you talk like that. Oh, Tom! You know

I love you."

"Do I? How?"

"I have come here to save you."

"To save me?"

"Yes—or to tell you how you can be saved, I think. General Winder is coming."

"General Winder, the provost marshal of Richmond? You say he is coming here to Libby prison?"

"Yes, right now—this evening. I coaxed him to get me permission for this little visit first. You know he is an old friend of father's, and he wouldn't refuse me anything."

"Then, there's something in the wind?"

"It's an exchange of prisoners, I think. Anyway, I heard some talk about selecting six officers from your room here. It must be for exchange. You shall be one of the six, Tom."

"And Hunt?"

"Yes, poor Ralph too. That's what I told General Winder. He shook his head and looked very serious, but I know he won't refuse me this, especially as it makes no difference to him whom he selects."

"Good for you, Marie! What can I say to you now?"

"Hush, they are coming!" she said, pointing to the door.

"Then, goodbye, Marie! God bless you."

"I'm sorry," interrupted Captain Warner, "but the time is up."

The girl smiled faintly through her tears.

"Oh, dear! Goodbye, Tom. Goodbye, Ralph. Gentlemen, goodbye, all of you. I'm so sorry! But you'll try and make the best of it, won't you?"

"Of course we will, bless your kind little heart," responded Colonel Cogswell, coming forward again. "And let me tell you, mademoiselle, you've completed the Johnnies' work by capturing our hearts."

"Three cheers for the American girl, anyhow!" proposed Hart.

They were given with a will, and Marie Mason, going out with honors, was rejoined by Captain Edward to be only perplexed and annoyed.

"What? All of you? But I only asked for six. I see that some definite plan of selection will have to be followed. You shall draw lots."

He took out his notebook, tore some slips of paper from it and directed Captain Warner to pass them around and have each man write his name on one. The slips were then all placed in a hat, from which Captain Cox was unanimously chosen to draw out six names. He did so, one at a time, handing each slip to Captain Warner without looking at it. Warner read the names aloud, and the general repeated them after him, at the same time writing them down in his notebook. They were as follows:

"Major Paul Revere, Thirtieth Massachusetts."

"Colonel Alfred Wood, Fourteenth New York."

"Lieutenant Frank Bedloe, — Pennsylvania."

"Colonel Michael Corcoran, Sixty-ninth New York."

"Captain Alfred Ely, Thirty-seventh New York."

"Captain Ralph Hunt, Tenth Kentucky."

Instantly upon the completion of this list Captain Cox spoke up and said:

"General, the last name I have drawn by an unhappy fatality is that of my old friend and comrade, Captain Ralph Hunt. He is a sick man port at once in the commissary's room."

The general and his staff officers retired, while Captain Warner and the guard took up their positions at either side of the doorway.

Hunt, the sick man, who had been helped by Lieutenant Bedloe to a chair, now got up again and grasped Captain Cox's hand, saying:

"Tom, you are the better man of us two—you have proved it in every way. I'm glad Winder wouldn't take you, as it is far better that I should go. All the same, you meant it, old fellow, and it was sublime."

"Why, Ralph," said Cox chokingly. "We are comrades—old comrades. Say no more, but I wish to heaven I could go in your place."

"Attention! Fall in!" commanded Warner.

The six doomed men fell into line, after silently shaking hands with those left behind. Hunt leaning on the arm of young Bedloe, and followed Warner into the outer darkness, for night had fallen and the flint glare of a couple of lanterns intensified rather than dissipated the surrounding gloom.

Cox paced up and down the forlorn room, with bowed head and hands clasped behind his back, for full fifteen minutes in the awed silence. Then he muttered:

"This is the last blow. Deacon, do you ever despair of what they call Providence?"

"Never did sit," protested the sturdy Hoosier. "I can't and won't believe they are going to sacrifice those boys in cold blood. Such things ain't in the bounds of civilization."

School Girl Had Serious Bronchial Cough—Cured It With Father John's Medicine.

"T h r e e years ago I was in bed for six weeks with bronchitis. I had a bad attack, coughed all winter and was in the cure of a physician."

Last winter, when I had another attack as bad, a lady recommended Father John's Medicine. I commenced taking it in a few weeks, and since then have never missed a day in school. I owe a great deal to it as the results were most favorable. My attack last winter was so bad I was propped up in bed every night for five weeks to get a little rest."

Here the silent Confederate officer, Captain Thornton, who had followed closely after her, caught her in his arms as she sank back fainting and, at a sign from the general, carried her, with the assistance of Warner, out of the room. Then, turning to Captain Cox, General Winder said:

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, March 27, 1873.—Storm—Last night's storm and darkness brought doubly increased severity of the storm and snow that came down with plundering force, driven by a resistless gale. Business and travel were suspended and everybody went to bed mad. But today the sun shines and there is a strong probability of a thaw. Last week farmers threw off their coats and indulged in plowing and grain sowing. This morning they bundled themselves up to the ears, put on their thickest mittens and dug away two or three inches of snow to get ice to melt for water for their cows to drink. Verily in spring we are in the midst of winter.

Alderman Martin, chairman of the fire department committee explains to us that two of the three ordered platforms for the use of the fire steamers have been constructed and the other contemplated improvements remain undone because of the scarcity of money. That is a most excellent reason but all this needless expenditure of money is simply thrown away and there are plenty of places where the river is low enough to furnish water to the fire-fighting engine.

Plowing snow and ice accumulated against the ice-booms above the upper dam last night, and formed an unbroken sheet from shore to shore. Thus navigation is closed again.

The trains were most all blocked by the heavy snow, the midnight express being delayed until nine o'clock this morning.
